MACDONALD RE-ELECTED TO OFFICE

Smashing Victory Piled Up By Government in British Elections Tuesday

LABORITES SWAMPED

Indications Are That Party Will Have Less Than 50 Seats in New House

BRITISH RESULTS LONDON, Oct. 28.—(UP)—Votes in the general election counted by 5:15 p. m. gave the following popular vote:

Conservatives, 11,528,012. Liberals, (three branches jointly), 2,040,734. National labor, 344,282. Others, 292,415.

The tabulation showed that although approximately 25,000 votes were enough to elect a conservative, it required 132,000 to elect a laborite.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(UP)—J. Ramsay MacDonald, socialist prime minister, led the conservatives and their allies to a smashing victory in yesterday's general election.

His former labor party was crushingly defeated in the coalition government's appeal to the country for a "doctor's mandate" to solve the economic crisis.

Labor, which on dissolution of parliament was the largest party with 280 seats, emerged from the people's verdict with little more than 50 seats, returns today showed. The national government had probably more than 550 and the conservative party alone close to 500.

It was an astounding victory for MacDonald, the war time pacifist and outcast, who led the labor party to the rule of the country and then deserted it for what he deemed the country's good. Plunging MacDonald and the conservatives, the party was almost destroyed. Its leader, Arthur Henderson, and nearly every one of its prominent members, failed of reelection to parliament.

The country voted away from advanced political theories and back to conservative principles, including endorsement of the government's stand for a tariff. Communist candidates, of whom there were 25, were annihilated. Many of them lost their 50 pound deposit because of the negligible vote they polled. These deposits are put up in advance but sacrificed if a certain percentage of votes is not polled.

MacDonald himself achieved a personal triumph by being reelected from his constituency of Seaham, in Durham. When he deserted labor for a coalition government, he and J. H. Thomas, who followed him, were read bitterly out of the party and MacDonald was asked to resign by the labor voters of Seaham. Both won the election.

MacDonald defied all political advice and insisted on being vindicated in his own constituency, instead of accepting a "safe" seat from the conservatives. He had a majority of nearly 6000 over his labor opponent, William Coxon. The communist candidate, George Lumley, polled only 677 votes and

HORACE FINE ANSWERS CALL THIS MORNING

As a newspaperman Horace Fine had a following among the fraternity second to none. His name and his reputation as a "square shooter" and a newspaperman who never violated a confidence were known the length and breadth of the state. Veteran editors of the west were old associates of Horace Fine. They were his friends.

Many an old timer in Santa Ana today recalled the thrilling experiences Horace Fine went through. Tribute was paid to him by countless friends on every corner of the city. They mourned his loss and while his familiar figure has been missing from his old haunts for more than a year, his home had been the gathering place of these friends.

Man Without Enemy
It was recalled by an old associate of Horace Fine's this morning that he was a man without an enemy. He had worked with Horace in the old days, through the battle of years until success crowned the heads of both. And in all those years, he declared, he never had heard Horace say an unkind word about anyone.

And the same man paid a tribute that is the El Dorado of every newspaperman:
"He was true to the game. He never violated a trust and he kept the faith."

Horace Fine was born in Santa Clara, Calif., December 31, 1869. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Fine, both deceased. They were California pioneers, his father a farmer and his mother coming to California in 1850 in a covered wagon across the continent from Independence, Mo. They lived on almost adjoining ranches, south of Santa Clara.

Moving south in January, 1883, they located in Santa Ana on a ranch of 10 acres at Broadway and Santa Clara avenue, now known as Broadway Park. In September, 1889, Horace Fine, then 20 years of age, went to work on the Santa Ana Tribune, owned by Edgar Johnson, where he worked three months, following which he worked the same length of time on The Standard.

Worked On Blade
Fine learned to set type and late in 1889 was employed on the Santa Ana Morning Blade of which S. H. Finley was a reporter. Victor Montgomery, W. H. Spurgeon and H. A. Peabody, all of whom have passed on, owned the paper. E. T. Cahill, "who wielded a vitrolite pen," in Horace Fine's own words, was imported to run the paper, which attempted to reform the city of Santa Ana and county of Orange and which had just then separated from the mother colony county of Los Angeles.

When the Blade was purchased by Horace McPhee and associates, the plant was moved to the Grand Opera House building and was changed to an evening paper. Late-er a lot was given to the paper on West Fourth street, between Birch and Ross and a brick edifice erected to house the plant. Horace was devil, reporter, pressman, foreman and circulation manager in turn. He was, as always, throughout his career, an indefatigable worker and as a young man set type all day, returning in the evening to distribute it and clean up the press for the next day.

When Fine went to work on the Blade, Charles D. Overshiner was foreman of the composing room. Among the employees was Miss May Waite, who later married Horace Fine and was the mother of his two daughters, Charlotte, now Mrs. Robert Lufberry, and Cleora.

Fine later purchased the circulation of the Blade from McPhee and built it up to very profitable proportions. When the Blade was sold to F. P. Clarkson, Mr. Fine became business manager.

During his incumbency in the employ of McPhee, he was sent to Escondido to start the Escondido Advance. He was there three months. Three months also was spent in Santa Paula where McPhee owned the Chronicle. Outside of these brief periods Fine had been continuously in Santa Ana and in the newspaper field, with the exception of a short time when he operated a gasoline filling station with F. M. Gilbank.

Enters Register
In November 1915 the veteran newspaperman entered the employ of The Register in the advertising department. In spare time he learned to operate the linotype which was always the source of great pleasure to him. Later he was transferred to the editorial staff. In this capacity he had become widely known and loved through his kindly courtesies and absolutely truthful recital of events. His "stories" always could be relied upon for their veracity. The only attempt Fine ever made to enter public life during his long and honorable career, was in 1926 when he made the race against the veteran county treasurer, J. C. Joplin. He was defeated.

Among many exciting events recalled with great interest, by Mr. Fine, just a few days before his death, was the long and faithful vigil he kept when the famous and well beloved tragedienne, Mme. Helene Modjeska was lying dangerously ill in her home on Bay Island, across the bay from Balboa. All hope was gone and death was looked for at any moment. He was correspondent for both the Associated Press and the Los Angeles Examiner. For 10 nights Fine "slept" on a narrow bench in the little summer house being paid $10 a night. When Mme. Modjeska died, April 6, 1909, through the irony of fate, Fine was on the way from Newport to Santa Ana when the news "broke," and T. E. Stephenson, correspondent for the Los Angeles Times, beat him on the wire by a few minutes.

Besides his daughters, Mrs. Robert Lufberry and Miss Cleora Fine, the decedent leaves his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fine and their daughters the Misses Mary, Helen and Margaret, his sisters-in-law, Mrs. Olive Lopez and Mrs. George W. Young, brother-in-law E. F. Waite, all of Santa Ana, and cousin, Dr. Henry Fine of the San Fernando Veterans hospital.

Native Son
Relatives on his mother's side are Mrs. I. A. Mecham, Mrs. Carl Mock, Franklin Grouard of Santa Ana, Mrs. Ruth McElroy of Maywood, Raney and Louis Garnsey of De Luz, Mrs. Nellie Young, Mrs. Margaret Downs of Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Raney of Villa Park.

Mr. Fine was a member of Santa Ana Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West, Santa Ana Lodge of Elks and honorary member of various service clubs. He also was a member of the Maccabees. Fine had lived in the house where he died for many years. He was married in this house and his two daughters were born there. The house was the home of the Waite family, Alonso Waite being the owner of the Santa Ana Herald. He was the father of Horace Fine's wife.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Smith and Tuthill Funeral home. The Rev. O. Scott McFarland, pastor of the First Presbyterian church will officiate.

Burial will be in Fairhaven cemetery, beside the bodies of his wife, mother and father.

PLAYERS READY FOR OPENING FINE COMEDY

The Santa Ana Community Players had their dress rehearsal last night for "Broken Dishes," domestic comedy which is to be presented at Ebell auditorium Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

The action of "Broken Dishes" revolves around amiable, henpecked Cyrus Bumpstead and his daughter Elaine. Amid the continual bickering of his wife and older daughters, Cyrus lives, serene and unmoved, but when the life-long happiness of his beloved Elaine is threatened he asserts himself, to the amazement of his family and his own ultimate satisfaction.

The love story of Elaine and her grocer boy, Bill, is tender and lovely, the essence of youth. Elaine's recognition of the futility of her sisters' lives and her determination for her happiness strikes a very responsive chord in the hearts of the audience, it is said. In the cast of the play are several old favorites. The new members in the cast will not be long in endearing themselves in the affections of followers of the Players. There are surprises in store for friends of Warren Fletcher and Estelle Card Beeman. They are cast in parts very different from any they have played previously.

Sam Green, the Reverend Doctor Stump, sentimental Myra and the incomparable Mabel are all ably handled and contribute greatly to the hilarity of this ingratiating little play.

The cast follows: Jenny, Estelle Card Beeman; Myra, Jean Worthington Miller; Mabel, Marion Parsons; Elaine, Pauline Park; Cyrus, Frank Lansdown; Bill Clark, Gene Olson; Sam Green, Edwin Beisel; Reverend Stump, Elton Du Pree; Stranger, Warren Fletcher; Quinn, Theodore Roth.

For tomorrow night, the Rev. D. V. Alderman and his wife, general supervisors of Angelus Temple, will conduct a service on evangelistic lines. Mrs. Alderman will deliver the sermon.

In ruling on Capone's plea for bail, the U. S. circuit court also acted to speed appeal of the sentence. Formal notice of the appeal has been given already. Under court rules, the briefs for Capone must be filed promptly. The government has been given 15 days for their answer. It was estimated the circuit court would require about three weeks for the decision with the entire process taking about two months.

UNITED EUROPE ENVISIONED BY PREMIER LAVAL

Berlin conference which preceded it.

Briand it was who proposed two years ago what was widely termed a "United States of Europe." He proposed Pan European co-operation on economic, political and military problems through a body acting independent of the League of Nations but in no way weakening that body.

The Pan Europe plan was submitted by Briand to 26 nations and all replied tentatively favorably—but most of them made counter proposals or suggestions for changes in the plan. All were agreed that closer European co-operation was not only desirable but necessary.

County Planners Attend Barbecue

FORMER RESIDENT DIES

Owens, who pleaded guilty to a burglary charge, was amended by the superior court yesterday to provide for his release from the county jail to the custody of George Boyd. Owens had been given five years probation and a term of one year in the county jail, the term starting on June 12.

Charging cruelty, Curtina Bustillos has brought suit for divorce from Charles M. Bustillos, in superior court. They were married in 1921 and separated on October 25, 1931, the complaint said, asking that custody of two minor children be awarded to Mrs. Bustillos.

Mercury Almost Sets Record

Just in case no one noticed it, today was a rather warm day. In fact one might go even farther and say that it was hot or even add descriptive adjectives and still be right.

At noon the mercury in the thermometer at S. Hill and Son's store here stood at 107 degrees and that is hot weather in any man's country. In fact it was just one degree under the year's highest point of 108 registered in August.

The accompanying desert wind failed to add to the comfort of Santa Anans who noticed the heat early this morning.

and defamatory statements against himself.

The reputation of Miss Britton was assailed by Charles B. King, vice president of the Marion Steam Shovel company, who testified that his opinion was derived from reading her book, Johnna. Key likewise impugned her reputation on the same authority.

William Marsteller, the plaintiff's counsel, protested this source of authority but Federal Judge John M. Killits sustained the witnesses' testimony.

Miss Britton had her daughter, Elizabeth Ann, now 12, in court during the hearing.

MACDONALD IS VICTORIOUS IN BRITISH VOTES

forfeited his deposit. MacDonald had 28,978 and Coxon 23,027.

A striking feature of the election was the fact that millions of voters, in endorsing the national government, did so in a spirit of patriotic self sacrifice, and approved the drastic economies put into force by the government. Policemen, teachers, clerks, postoffice employees, government employees, officials, judges and others ratified a cut in their pay which they could ill afford. The cut in the "dole" for the unemployed, in effect, was approved by a popular vote that approximated in the late count a ratio of 2 to 1.

The Labor rout was emphasized when William Graham, former president of the Board of Trade and deputy leader of the party, was defeated in Edinburgh. He polled 10,556 votes against 17,293 for J. C. M. Guy and 1319 for Fred Douglas, Communist, the latter forfeiting his deposit.

Of the Labor candidates of former cabinet rank, only the veteran George Lansbury was reelected. There was much speculation whether the remnants of Labor would take Lloyd George as their leader. The immediate results of the election will be that the MacDonald government can proceed with an absolutely free hand towards putting its economic rehabilitation program into effect. It probably will include:

- (1) A tariff.
  - (2) International action to revise war debts and reparations.
  - (3) International conferences on gold.
  - (4) Creation of a favorable trade balance.
  - (5) Finding work for the unemployed by adoption of any practical proposal.
  - (6) Conversion of the war loan.
- Reduction of the Dole and the other economies recently put into effect will be retained. When the budget is balanced, lower taxes may result.

(It may be noted in connection with the tariff that Britain already has a tariff on certain manufactured articles, tobacco, spirits, etc., but most raw materials and a wide range of manufactured articles are admitted free. The present tariff is not called that but is known as "safeguarding of industry" and is greatly restricted in Europe.)

NEW HAVEN SAFEST CITY
NEW HAVEN, Conn.—(UP)—Traffic law enforcement, planning and educational work gained New Haven the title of America's safest city, according to President Donald A. Adams, of the Chamber of Commerce. The title was conferred by the Annual Safety Congress at Chicago recently, in token of this city's record of 109 days without a traffic fatality.

DEATHS

A WORD OF COMFORT

Do not be baffled by the disbelief of others. Your own life work will be stunted if you give ear to the falsest questionings of those who have never loved nor thought deeply. You do not want to come to a place where you look back at wasted opportunities and say, "It might have been." If you are a Christian, let your faith get you nowhere. Spiritual indolence begets slavery to your lower impulses. By your own act, you must define your allegiance and hold true to it through the darkest days. At length the sun will break through the clouds and you will know that you are free from doubts and from despair. You are on the road which leads to the haven where you would be; your dear one awaits you there.

ENDORSES WORK WITH PRISONERS AT COUNTY JAIL

Robert K. Murray, who recently conducted a four-day institute in training for recreational leadership, held in the high school gymnasium here, has just commended the physical education work being conducted by the adult education department of the city schools for county jail prisoners. Mrs. Golden Weston, director of adult education, received a letter from Murray commenting on his observation of jail education work, which was made public today.

In the letter Murray said: "It has been my pleasure to witness recreational activities over the United States, but I have never seen greater enjoyment registered on any countenance than I witnessed on the faces of the Chinese prisoners in the Orange county jail during one of their recreational periods. The work of caring for the souls of these men as well as their physical being is a work of which the adult education department of Santa Ana may be justly proud."

The physical education program is in charge of W. W. Wieman who directs the recreational activities six hours each week in the inner court. Murray also visited the jail library, consisting of several hundred books which have been donated by various persons and organizations, in response to the request of Judge James L. Allen which was made last spring. Through the efforts of R. D. Lippincott, assistant jailer, these books have been carefully catalogued and a record kept of their circulation.

Aside from the physical education program and the library service organized, study groups are conducted under the leadership of Elba Johnson, M. V. Newcomer and Mrs. A. T. Bethencourt. The educational program has been under way in the local county jail for nearly three years and has gradually grown in its extent of service. Part of this program, which is financed entirely by school funds, according to Mrs. Weston, was continued throughout the past summer. Three hours a week of physical education was given under the direction of L. W. Archer and Ferris Scott. A program of two hours a week was also carried on in social studies under Elba Johnson, who had been in charge of the academic program the latter part of the school year and who volunteered her services when it was found this part of the program could not be financed during the summer.

Bids Ordered For Alamitos Bridge

Orange county today was planning to make available its $25,000 appropriation toward building the proposed Alamitos bridge connecting Long Beach and Seal Beach via Ocean avenue, as soon as construction starts. The Los Angeles county board of supervisors has ordered advertisement for bids on construction of the bridge, estimated to cost $110,000. The federal government has given its approval to the project.

Sciots Arrange Dance to Bolster Convention Fund

Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes at the Halloween dance to be held under the auspices of the Santa Ana Sciots tomorrow night from 9 to 12 o'clock at the Knights of Pythias hall, Broadway and Fifth street. Proceeds from the affair are to go toward meeting the expenses of sending uniformed bodies to the Stockton convention early in November.

Walter Wright, captain of the guard, and George Sullivan, drum major, will have charge of the floor arrangements for the dance. The judging of costumes and the award of prizes will be handled by William Sylvester, toparch. Halloween decorations are being provided by James Walker and Ora Jennings. Other plans that have been outlined in the program of Sciots activities during the next few weeks include the participation of the drill team and drum corps in the Halloween parade at Anaheim Friday night and entry in the Armistice day parade in Santa Ana November 11, after returning from the Stockton convention.

L. L. Beeman, of the social science department in the high school and junior college here, will attend a meeting of the Pacific Southwest Academy to be held at Pomona college on October 31. The general topic of the session will be "Aspects of Law Administration."

CITY SCHOOL HEADS HOLD SHORT SESSION

Members of the Santa Ana board of education met last night in one of the shortest sessions of recent months. Called to order at 7:30 p. m. by Chairman George Wells, business was transacted and the board ready to adjourn at 7:50 o'clock. Adjournment was delayed, however, until 8:20 p. m., awaiting the appearance of members of the Enterprise club on behalf of the petition to use the high school auditorium for an address by Senator Tom Hefflin.

At the last meeting of the school board a representative of the Enterprise club appeared before the members and requested permission to use the auditorium. When the petitioner refused to name officers of the organization the board postponed action on the request until more information relative to the organization could be secured. Board members were notified that several prominent Santa Anans would be present at last night's session to explain the organization and renew the petition for use of the auditorium. This delegation failed to appear and the board adjourned at 8:20 p. m. after agreeing to meet and act upon the request at any time sponsors of the meeting cared to appear.

The board granted use of the high school auditorium to the Cantando club for three concerts during the winter and spring. The first concert will be on November 17, the second, February 16, and the final concert on May 17.

Football on Menu For Breakfasters

Football, hot off the grid, will be served tomorrow morning for members of the Santa Ana Breakfast club when they meet at Ketter's cafe. James A. Merigold, program chairman for the day, has announced that "Tex" Oliver, coach at the Santa Ana high school and Ralph "Bill" Cole, Tustin high school coach, will be honor guests at the session and will divide speaking honors.

The musical section of the program will be provided by Charlotte Morgan and Loren Cannon of the Norman Morgan orchestra. They will play piano and violin numbers.

Nine prospective jurors had been excused, one for cause and four each by the plaintiffs and defendants, on peremptory challenges, when the special venire was called.

The complaint in the case said that Scholl's truck, driven by Jones, collided with the plaintiffs' car. The defendants claimed the accident was partially attributable to contributory negligence on the part of the plaintiffs.

WHAT DOES A FREE X-RAY EXAMINATION MEAN TO YOU? IS IT WORTHY OF YOUR CONSIDERATION IF YOU ARE SICK?

Would you be willing to spend a few minutes today in order to determine exactly what is causing the trouble, if in so doing you are put to no expense and are under no obligation in any way? We are certain you would. Then if you are willing, act at once, as it may save you a great deal of suffering later on. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

HEALTH IS THE RESULT OF PERFECT CO-ORDINATION OF ALL OF THE ORGANS OF THE BODY; however, if these parts are not co-ordinating one with another, the result is sickness and disease. Are your kidneys, lungs, bowels, spleen, stomach, pancreas, heart, liver and bladder working as they should? If not, how can you expect to be well? Disorders, such as toxic poisoning, asthma, constipation, diabetes, indigestion, weak heart, biliousness, bladder trouble, lumbago, rheumatism, headaches, nervousness and that tired, worn-out feeling which comes over you in the morning when you should be at your best, are results of a weakened condition of some of the above organs. This weakness directly due to a pressure on the nerve supplying functional energy to the affected parts. Without this nerve force or energy no part of the body will work as it should.

FREE X-Ray examination will show the exact location and extent of this pressure. That is why we use it in our work. We would no more think of adjusting a patient without an X-Ray picture than a carpenter would think of building a house without a rule. This is because we do not believe in guesswork when the health of a patient is at stake.

X-RAY COUPON
If presented within 10 days from date this coupon entitles the bearer to an X-Ray report showing the exact cause of his sickness absolutely free of charge or obligation in any way.

PLANT FIRST TREE IN MEMORY LANE

Honoring the memory of departed comrades, officers of Santa Ana Post No. 131, American Legion planted a red hibiscus yesterday as the first tree in Memory Lane. Memory Lane will extend from Long Beach to Irvine park as an always living tribute to those who served in the World War and have passed on to "that bourne from which no man returneth."

The Santa Ana post planted its tree at the intersection of Flower and Fairhaven streets with appropriate ceremonies by the Legion and the Mothers' club as represented by Mrs. Mabel Leach.

The tree was presented to the post by the general committee on Armistice Day.

POLICE APPREHEND SCHOOL BURGLARS

Six Santa Ana boys, ranging in age from eight to 13 years, were charged with burglary of the Edison school, at St. Gertrude's Place and Orange avenue.

The school has been entered several times during the past several weeks by boys, according to the police, entrance to the building being made with a pass key.

All six of the youths are said to have confessed their participation in the burglary, during which $5.80 in cash, a box of pencils, erasers, fountain pens and other articles were taken.

Three of the youths, adjudged by officers as the ring leaders were lodged in the county detention home and the other three were turned over to their parents for punishment.

Special Venire Of Three Called For Damage Suit Here
A special venire of three persons was called today by Superior Judge James L. Allen when the regular panel was exhausted as attorneys sought to get a jury in the $14,917.50 damage suit brought against H. C. School and Sam Jones, of Santa Ana, by E. M. Crawford, of Hertha L. Crawford and Joyce Crawford, of Orange, as a result of injuries to the latter two in an automobile accident in the Santa Ana canyon on September 21, 1929.

Nine prospective jurors had been excused, one for cause and four each by the plaintiffs and defendants, on peremptory challenges, when the special venire was called.

The complaint in the case said that Scholl's truck, driven by Jones, collided with the plaintiffs' car. The defendants claimed the accident was partially attributable to contributory negligence on the part of the plaintiffs.

COX IS SURGICAL PATIENT
Charles Cox, formerly of Santa Ana and now a resident of Huntington Beach, underwent an operation for the removal of goiter at St. Joseph's hospital this morning and his condition is reported to be quite satisfactory. He will be confined at the hospital for a few days before he returns to his home.

MORE COUNTY. STATE SCHOOL MONEY IS SEEN

In accordance with suggestions made by E. L. Travers, state director of continuation and adult education, a change will be made in the manner of making reports to the state by the adult education department of the Santa Ana schools, which is expected to result in that department receiving more state and county school money, it was announced today by Dr. Percy R. Davis, superintendent of Santa Ana schools.

The suggested change is in conformity with a new law passed by the last legislature, Dr. Davis said. The new system will involve different groupings of attendance items in the reports. Just how much the increased funds will amount to under the new system will not be ascertained until the plan has been put into effect and reports have been made to the state on the new basis, Dr. Davis said.

Travers conferred here yesterday with Dr. Davis and Mrs. Golden Weston, director of adult education in Santa Ana.

ANAHEIM VETERAN DIES AT SAWTELLE

Andy Anderson, 51, well known veteran of the World War, of 112 West Center street, Anaheim, passed away at the Veteran's hospital at Sawtelle early this morning. Anderson has been ill for the past two years and has been in the hospital since November. He has been in business in Anaheim since 1920 and was a native of Texas.

The veteran is survived by his widow Mrs. Ida Anderson. He was discharged from the United States navy in 1918. Funeral arrangements are to be in charge of Backs, Terry and Campbell.

Plan Story Hour At Junior Library

Youthful patrons of the Santa Ana Junior Library will be interested to learn of the program which has been planned for the story hour at the library tomorrow.

Miss Mary Bowyer who heads the staff of the Junior Library said this morning: "With our knapsack of stories over our shoulder we have traveled across the United States, up to the land of the Eskimos, and down to Mexico, which will be the setting of the story hour at the Junior department of the Santa Ana public library tomorrow afternoon at 3:45 o'clock."

"An old witch will give the poem 'The Hags of Hallow-Even' and a Hallow-Even couple will give a dance, a puppet dance. 'Rastus' Ducky Dream,' will be the second of a series."

DEFER TRIAL OF YOUTHS IN ATTACK CASE

The cases of four Orange youths, two charged with assault with a deadly weapon and two others with being accessories to the crime, scheduled for preliminary examination before Justice of the Peace Kenneth Morrison today, were continued until November 5, at 9 a. m. The continuances were granted on motion of the defense attorney, D. G. Wettlin, who was busy in superior court in another case.

Virgil Heffner and Woodrow Ray, each are charged with assaulting Ralph Somstock and Charles Gray, two Anaheim youths who are reported to have come to the aid of two Fullerton junior high school girls who, according to police records, were being detained against their will by Heffner and Ray. Both Somstock and Gray were injured.

Burl Ray, brother of Woodrow, and Kahal Martin are asserted to have aided Ray and Heffner to escape after the assault crime.

Sunset Beach Man Jailed On Charge Of Selling Booze

Wanted here on a charge of sale of intoxicating liquor, Guy Stephenson, 22, of Sunset Beach, was arrested at the beach town by Deputy Sheriff McKeely yesterday afternoon and lodged in the county jail.

He was arrested on a warrant which dated back to August when the sheriff and the district attorney staged a county wide liquor raid which resulted in 23 arrests. When search for Stephenson was made, he was reported missing from a restaurant where he was employed at Sunset Beach and only returned there several days ago.

He is asserted to have sold a small amount of liquor to a sheriff's office undercover agent.

CAR CRASH BASIS OF $20,560 SUIT

Clyde E. Ritter, residing near Buena Park, today filed suit against Jesse W. ## ANTICIPATE COUNTY UNITY ON FLOOD CONTROL PLAN; SCORE GUN CLUB WASTE

Belief that the time is drawing near when all sections of the county will be united on a water conservation plan was expressed at the meeting of the Associated Chambers of Orange county at Costa Mesa last night. Members were urged to refrain from any action, individually or as members of other organizations, "that might complicate the situation."

Negotiations between the principals in the suits against cities and water companies using water from the lower Santa Ana River Basin indicated early settlement of these cases, it was reported. An effort is being made to bring the principals in the suit together.

Expect Agreement
All signs point to an amicable agreement between the board of supervisors and the water companies for control of the reservoir site at Prado for the Orange County Flood Control project, it was reported by Ross Shafer. An early date will be set for a conference between the supervisors and representatives of the water companies. An agreement would be reached, too, he predicted, on the use of the waters developed by the San Juan Creek and Trabuco Creek dams.

Help in clearing up the water situation has been offered by the Federated Women's Clubs of Orange county and by the Anaheim Conservation committee, it was announced.

President O. T. Stevens of La Habra added his personal request that the problem be left uncomplicated by individuals and other organizations.

Attack Gun Club Use
Later in the meeting Shafer made an attack on the excessive use of water by gun clubs, and, on a suspension of rules, the following resolution was adopted unanimously:

"Whereas, The flooding of some 1400 acres of land for the use of the gun clubs is depleting the waters of the Santa Ana basin by an amount variously estimated to be in excess of 8000 to 10,000 acre feet per year, which is a wasteful use in the light of the existing shortage of water in that basin. Therefore, Be It Resolved: That the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county condemn this wasteful use and endorse all efforts being made to stop or limit such use of our waters by the gun clubs of Orange county."

"The secretary is hereby instructed to make this resolution public and to send a copy of it to the board of supervisors and to the district attorney."

The meeting was held in the Woman's club, the members of which served the dinner. L. P. Anderson of Costa Mesa made the address of welcome and the response was made by Dr. W. H. Wickert of Fullerton.

Citrus Limit Near
County Farm Advisor Harold D. Wahlberg, reporting for the agricultural committee, gave some amazing figures on the present status of the citrus industry throughout the world, declaring that a state of overproduction has been reached and advising against the further planting of trees until the situation has cleared up. He showed the tremendous production

Committee Reports
Judge Tom Pickrell of Placentia reported for the county planning commission, J. A. Smiley of the good roads committee said there is less travel on the roads. Lew Wallace of Newport Beach told of the new dredging contract in Newport Harbor in an effort to provide additional anchorage. J. C. Bliss of Fullerton reported that the Bandini Estates have purchased 400 acres in the county for industrial sites, presumably for railroad interests. George Macleod of Newport Beach reported that 2560 striped bass have been planted in the Upper Newport Bay and that between 50,000 and 100,000 would be planted there. George Rayner of Santa Ana told that the Chamber of Commerce jaunt to Old Mexico had been postponed to January 19.

An appeal was made to water representatives of all sections of the county to attend a hearing of the water conservation committee of the state legislature at Riverside, November 3, when the proposed state-wide plan will be discussed. This followed a report by Mayor Thomas J. Murphy of San Clemente on the recent meeting of the Southern California Economic Council in San Diego. Assemblyman Ted Craig has made the request that he be informed just what part Orange county wants to play in the state-wide program.

Unemployment Considered
Reports on unemployment aid in various sections of the county were interesting. Harry May of Fullerton reported that $20,000 of the funds of the third supervisory district is being used to keep 150 men, elected from various sections, working two days a week at $4 per day, for four months. Mrs. May Jackson of Huntington Beach told that 62 men are being kept at work two days a week through a citizens' committee and that beans are being distributed to needy families. Clyde Downing of Santa Ana told of the functioning of a large citizens' committee and declared that the unemployed themselves were showing a willingness to co-operate with the committee in helping out the situation.

The principal address of the evening was made by Jack Crill of Garden Grove on "The Purposes and Functions of the Farm Bureau." He declared that the duck clubs were a thorn in the side of the Farm Bureau and said the owners of the clubs had agreed to appoint a committee for a discussion of the situation. The prepared address was very interesting, telling of the work among 1600 families which are members of the bureau and of the great benefits derived. He said that these families were helping with the water situation by less and more effective use of water. He attacked the taxation of farm land at the present rate, declaring that in some places the farmer pays for his land every nine years. There are 5000 farms in Orange county, 4000 of which are under full ownership with a production total of $61,581,561.61 per year.

ORANGE UNION GETS REPORTS NEW OFFICERS SELECTED FOR CONVENTION CHURCH CLASS

ORANGE, Oct. 28.—High lights from the state convention were given yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the W. C. T. U. Mrs. Minnie Neville started another year as president of the local union. She was re-appointed on the executive board of the state W. C. T. U. as social morality director.

Mrs. Clara Sumner, evangelistic director, conducted the devotionals, reading the scripture on stewardship from the 25th chapter of the Gospel by St. Matthew. Mrs. Angelina Courtney offered prayer. "I Shall Not Pass This Way Again" was sung by Mrs. Leon de Larzes, accompanied by Mrs. Dayton Ditchey.

A letter from Mrs. L. Frost of Sacramento, past president of the union, was read by Mrs. Pearl Kendall Hess, telling of the northern state convention held recently at Modesto. Mrs. Frost held the address given by Mrs. Katharine Norris, noted California novelist on Tuesday evening during the 51st convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Northern California in the Presbyterian church at Modesto. Mrs. Kathryn Norris said in part: "There has never been a single great social advance made without the violent opposition of a certain number of people. The leaders of every movement have encountered just such bitterness and denunciation as the friends of prohibition are meeting now." Assailing the opponents of prohibition as "a slippery and dangerous group who do not believe in their own arguments," Mrs. Norris said that she had never yet heard advocated a single valid argument for repeal.

Reports of the convention were given by Mrs. Pearl Kendall Hess, Mrs. Minnie Neville, the Misses Mary and Carrie Heywood and Mrs. Angelina Courtney. Mrs. Neville read a clever poem on the convention written by Mrs. Cora Hale, county president.

There is nothing to be seen, of course, without eyes to see it. Lucky it is there are eyes from which the "blind" may borrow a bit of vision now and then. ## NEW FREIGHT DELIVERY PLAN OF SANTA FE

The Santa Fe railroad will shortly inaugurate a pick-up and delivery service on local freight in California and Southern Arizona. It was learned today from P. W. Doane, Santa Fe agent for Santa Ana. This announcement, originally released by J. N. Hayden, assistant traffic manager, is interpreted as meaning that the Santa Fe recognizes the modern trend in transportation and will handle freight shipments much on the order of express.

Supplementing its present rail facilities, the Santa Fe is contracting with local transfer concerns for the picking up of outgoing shipments, and the delivery of inbound shipments in less than car load lots to stores and warehouses. This service will be given without additional cost, and is expected to become effective early in December.

According to plans now being worked out, the service will apply generally between all Santa Fe stations in California, and in some instances between points in Southern California and Phoenix, Arizona.

"Shippers will not only benefit by the convenience of having their freight handled to or from their doors, but will also enjoy a savings, since the regular station rate station rates will include pick-up and delivery service," Doane pointed out. "Shippers who elect to make their own deliveries will receive an allowance for such service."

GIVES VIEWS ON SITUATION IN MANCHURIA

BERKELEY, Oct. 28.—An attempt by Japan to teach the Chinese a lesson in Southern Manchuria and emerge from a military coup considerably more secure in rights based on treaties with Old China, was given as the reason for the present Sino-Japanese difficulties, in a statement by Dr. Robert J. Kerner, professor of history at the University of California.

Dr. Kerner has recently returned from three months of travel and study in Japan, Korea, Manchuria and China, during which time he conferred with social scientists, industrial advisors, government officials and diplomats who are intimately acquainted with the existing political and economic problems in the Far East.

Result of Irritation
The historian's statement is as follows: "The incidents which culminated in the Japanese coup in Manchuria were the natural result of mutual irritation common to situations in which one nation is in the occupation or control of the territory of another."

"It was generally felt among the Japanese in Manchuria this summer that the Chinese should be taught a lesson in Southern Manchuria similar to that administered by the Soviet union in Northern Manchuria in 1929. It was argued from the Japanese side that, as the Soviets were respected more after 1925 than before, the Japanese would emerge from a military coup considerably more secure in rights based on treaties with Old China in 1905 and 1915 which were being menaced by a nationally awakened population under the new China."

Chinese Wanted Withdrawal
"On the other hand, the Chinese could see only one solution, the withdrawal of the Japanese from Manchuria, by making them as uncomfortable as possible. During the last three decades the Chinese had made Manchuria overwhelmingly Chinese. They had built and projected railroads to compete with the Japanese-controlled South Manchurian lines and they are constructing the port of Hulao to take the place of Dalen as the southern terminus of their network."

"In short, flushed by the partial success of China in her struggle to free herself from foreign leaseholds and concessions, the Chinese in Manchuria and in China as a whole are resentful of politically entrenched foreigners regardless of the treaty rights they may have obtained from a government which no longer exists."

Buster Brown To Greet Children At S. A. Theater
Buster Brown and his old pal Tige, are to greet children of Santa Ana and vicinity at a party to be given at the Fox West Coast theater, Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, and free tickets for the show may be obtained at Sebastian's Brownbilt Shoe store, at 306 East Fourth street, according to an announcement made this morning.

Buster Brown and his dog began their career at the Chicago world's fair and since that time have traveled constantly, visiting cities all over the United States. This is the third annual visit of the famous pair sponsored by Sebastian's.

Tige is a real live dog and Buster Brown is a real live boy and both are said to be entertaining performers. The antics of the boy and his inseparable companion amused thousands of boys and girls in the "funnies" for many years. Each boy and girl attending the show is to be presented with a free souvenir.

SAYS GROWERS MUST REDUCE CITRUS COSTS

Unusual interest in the work of the Citrus Experiment station was displayed when 459 citrus growers in two caravans of 75 cars each visited the station and experimental plots at Riverside recently. It is reported by the farm advisor's office. The tours were held under the auspices of the Agricultural Extension service, University of California, and the citrus department of the Orange County Farm Bureau, according to Farm Advisor Harold E. Wahlberg, who arranged the program.

Prof. Gordon Surr welcomed the groups in behalf of the institution and enumerated the many projects undertaken by the station, including citrus root stocks, fertilizer treatments, disease control, pest control and varieties. Not only is the station working on citrus but almost all the subtropicals—walnuts, figs, persimmons, olives, avocados, dates and many other varieties.

Scaly Bark and Sprays
Dr. H. S. Fawcett, noted citrus pathologist, assured the delegation that so far there has not been found any easy or cheap substitute for the spraying method of controlling scaly bark. All other methods have failed so far to give satisfactory results, he said. Cheaper oil sprays to meet the lower trend of citrus returns were described by Dr. Ralph Smith, entomologist. He pointed out that the tank mix spray which was perfected by the experiment station has reduced the cost of spray materials about 50 per cent, resulting in a saving of thousands of dollars to the growers of Southern California.

Prof. Sam Beckett, division of irrigation investigations, emphasized the need for more intelligent irrigation practices in the citrus industry. Although irrigation practices have improved materially during the past few years as a result of the many field demonstrations and educational meetings held by the farm advisor's office, still there is much room for improvement, he declared. Some orchards are still setting out too much water and a few are suffering for the lack of water even where available, he said.

Must Cut Costs
"Citrus cost studies conducted during the past six years in Orange county indicate that many growers must cut down their production costs if they shall be able to cope with the low level of prices that face the industry in the next 10 years," said Farm Advisor Harold E. Wahlberg during the second tour.

"In 1929, the last big crop year, it cost the average grower $1.50 per packed box to produce Valencia in Orange county. The range of total costs varied from 43 cents to $2.75 per packed box. This year, another heavy crop year, costs may be somewhat reduced because of cheaper fertilizers, pest control materials, etc. It is too early to say what returns will average this year, but they will be unsatisfactory to the grower whose costs are high, or whose size and quality of fruit have not met market requirements."

The many fertilizer treatment plots and root stock experiments were visited by the Orange county growers. Most nitrogen materials were tested, also phosphoric acid and potash materials. The best plots were those that used simple nitrogen fertilizers in the spring, plus manure in the fall and winter cover crop. The use of phosphates, potash, lime, gypsum and other materials have shown no advantage in yields or appearance of trees, according to Prof. Gordon Surr, who directed the group through the plots.

Law Enforcement Officers Confer On Fruit Patrol

Members of the county board of supervisors were expected to attend the meeting at noon today in the Santa Ana cafe in which the 12 constables of the county, District Attorney Sam Collins and Sheriff Logan Jackson were to confer with Farm bureau officials on the question of expanding the work of the fruit patrol.

A letter from the Farm bureau was read to the board yesterday, inviting its members to attend. Roland Flaherty, executive secretary of the Farm bureau, appeared before the board last week to see if it was possible to restore the fruit patrol to its former status of eight members. Not having the money budgeted, the board did not grant the request but suggested that conferences be held with the constables and other law enforcement groups to see if a program could be worked out which would bring about the results desired.

Today's meeting was a result of that suggestion.

Court Notes

Homer King failed in his effort to collect $2435 damages from W. D. Hahner at the conclusion of trial of his suit in superior court here, which was based on injuries received by King when the Hammer car is asserted to have collided with it at Whitaker and Magnolia avenues on March 4, 1931. The court found in favor of the defendant.

Ralph Thompson, Long Beach man, charged with issuing a check for $105 on which no payment was made, justice Kenneth Morrison's court today until November 10, at the request of his attorney, D. G. Wetzel. On further request of the attorney, Thompson was released on his own recognizance.

Saints Use Larrabee At Full

KIDDER MOVED TO QUARTER IN TEAM SHAKEUP

Santa Ana Hi will use Duane Larrabee at fullback and "Red" Kidder at quarterback against Long Beach Saturday afternoon.

Although lacking official confirmation from "headquarters," it was reliably reported today that Coach "Tex" Oliver has virtually decided on these drastic backfield alterations for the sake of increasing the offensive power of his undefeated Saint football machine.

Other starting backs probably will be Captain "Toy" Blower at left half and "Porky" Bell at right half. Floyd Montgomery, hero of the Pasadena game, will replace Bell when the organization is "softened" somewhat.

New Lineup Impresses Coach Larrabee, formerly a halfback, and Kidder, hitherto the fullback, worked at their new positions throughout a spirited intersquad scrimmage yesterday and impressed Coach Oliver tremendously.

Larrabee is the hardest-hitting back on the squad and Kidder probably is the team's best blocker. They appeared to strengthen Santa Ana's attack through the middle of the line which up until now has been woefully weak.

It was noticed that the second string was unable to halt Larrabee's line plunging. Nor did it do much to Halfbacks Blower, Bell and Montgomery when Kidder was leading the interference off-tackle

U.S. May Bar Schmeling As Undesirable

NEW YORK, Oct. 28. — (INS)—When Max Schmeling arrives here from Europe next month he may be barred from the United States as an undesirable alien, it developed today.

The department of labor in Washington, acting on a complaint filed by Attorney Samuel White, has issued an order to the port of New York authority calling for the heavy-weight champion's detention upon his arrival, pending investigation of the charges.

White's complaint is based on Schmeling's alleged assault on Jimmy Rahi, 19-year-old process server, here last winter.

Schmeling and his manager's denied Rahi's charges at the time. The commissioner of immigration will decide whether Schmeling may land here.

M'LEMORE HAS HIS SAY ABOUT 1931 FOOTBALL

BY HENRY M'LEMORE (United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Oct. 28. — (UP)—In which we offer, gratis, free and postpaid, a few personal opinions on football:

1—That this business of giving publicity to high scorers on jerk water elevens is very much the malarkey. Ninety-nine times out of a hundred, "Glutz or Sluash" has scored his 16

2—That Columbia, after it plays Cornell Saturday, will realize one swallow doesn't make a summer, and one victory over Dartmouth does not make a team.

3—That Able Booth, like Mark Twain's death, was greatly exaggerated. And that the coaches who made his entrance into a game such theatrical bits, worked a severe hardship on his chances.

4—That Yale, in the fourth quarter of the Army game was the most mismanaged team in years.

5—That the effete east is playing its best football in many moons, but will continue to lag behind other sections of the country until its players learn to block and tackle wickedly.

6—That if Barry Wood was sincere when he said he never read newspaper accounts of his prowess, he should be placed in a glass cage and preserved as the sports freak of the age.

7—That punters who get off kicks that roll out of bounds within the opponents 10-yard line are only lucky and deserve no credit for "magic feet." "Uncanny accuracy" and the like.

8—That Notre Dame and Georgia will wind up the 1931 season as the two great teams of the year.

9—That All-America teams are sadder than guys who carry umbrellas.

10—That Jack Grossman of the next-to-nothing Rutgers eleven, is the best backfield man in the east.

11—That Paul Riblett of Pennsylvania, is the best end in this neck of the woods.

12—That All-America pickers this year face a tough job in naming the quarterback. If they name McEver of Tennessee, there's Wood of Harvard. And if they name Wood, there's McEver.

An enterprising young woman reporter has dug up the fact that a former captain of Princeton's football team is a section manager in the ladies' bloomers' department of the New York Store.

Which makes two former Princeton football heroes who are dealing with bloomers. The other is Al Wittmer, head coach of the 1931 Princeton varsity.

DEMPSEY'S NEXT?

Here is Lavon Vincent, University of Utah beauty contest winner and prominent sorority girl, whose friendship with Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, has led to reports of a romance. Miss Vincent is a daughter of Jos G. Vincent, Utah financier and sportsman, with whom Dempsey recently went on a hunting trip in Wyoming.

CONCEDE BRUIN ELEVEN CHANCE TO BEAT CARDS

BY ALANSON W. EDWARDS (United Press Staff Correspondent)

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 28. — (UP)—A fast and fighting band from Moraga valley, the Gaels of St. Mary's will perform again in the leading game of the Far West this week while Pacific Coast conference squads engage for the most part in secondary combat.

Oregon State against Washington State, and Stanford against U.C.A. are the stellar conference games scheduled, but the "Little Big Game" between St. Mary's and Santa Clara in San Francisco Sunday has the most prospects of becoming a gridiron classic.

Unbeaten and untied this season, and with California and U.S.C. among their victories, the Gaels are headed for national honors. Rivalry with Santa Clara, however, has proven their undoing in years past and the Bruins again present a real threat to St. Mary's aspirations.

Coaches Are Rockne Products The rival coaches, Maurice ("Clipper") Smith of the Bruins and Edward Patrick ("Slip") Madigan of the Gaels, are both former Notre Dame stars under Knute Rockne and their teams are fashioned after the Irish attack. When the two meet, fans usually see the hardest, toughest game of the season.

The Bruins from Los Angeles may put over a "sleeper" on Stanford, although the Cardinals expect to win and remain tied with the Trojans for the conference lead. The Bruins held Northwestern, one of the nation's very best, to 19 to 6, and on the strength of this may hand Glenn Schoey Warner a surprise.

The Oregon State-Washington State game in Portland will bring together two losers in conference competition, with Oregon State possibly holding an edge. "Babe" Hollingbery's 1930 champions have not fared well this year and they appear out of stride. It will be a close fought game.

Bears Have "Breather" Sallomarm Bill Ingram's Bears of California are fortunate to have Nevada for a "breather" this week because they are in no shape to meet a force of the first water. The Bears showed they have a real team when they held the Trojans to 6 to 0, but four of the backfield stars—Schalch, East, Watkins and Cataldo—are indefinitely out because of injuries. They will need all their strength for the Washington game the following week.

The Gonzaga Bulldogs, who smeared the Gaels for three periods here last Sunday, will meet Idaho at Moscow and probably will pass them off their feet.

The Washington Huskies should have no trouble vanquishing Whitman at Seattle.

Montana and Montana State will cross paths at Butte.

The big intersectional game of the week will be Oregon against New York university in New York. The Purple has produced one of the leading teams in the east this year, and it will be a decided upset if Clarence Spears' workmen, despite their stamina and strength, are returned winners.

DONS PRACTICE FOR FRAY WITH LOYOLA FROSH

BY PAUL WRIGHT

Santa Ana fans will have an opportunity to see a colorful exhibition of Knute Rockne football here Friday when Coach Bill Sargent brings his Loyola Frosh eleven to Poly field for a non-conference game with Santa Ana junior college.

Friday's clash will greatly test Santa Ana, since the Loyola yearlings, with a flashy and smooth-working machine, already have served notice this season that they mean to go places and do things. San Bernardino junior college was taken into camp, 18-0, last Saturday. Before that Tatt Joyce was tied, 6-6.

It was "Flash" Eckrenroth, backfield star, who spelled defeat for San Bernardino, and it may be Eckrenroth again Friday. The Loyolan's playing may necessitate Cook's using first-string men. The Don mentor, however, still plans to give "those boys who haven't seen much action" a chance, but at the same time he won't allow this fact to hinder his attempt to win the game, and if Jim Duneri and Jack O'Mara fall to impress in the backfield, in go Emmett Seacord and Hideo Higashi.

During yesterday's scrimmage O'Mara went live a million until he was pitted with someone who also knew how to carry the ball; then O'Mara went like a million until he messed play after play. At times the former Point Loma shows a keen knowledge of plays, and at other times he gets rattled and acts before he thinks.

Finding it necessary to secure employment, Harry Holmes, end and halfback, checked in his suit yesterday. Holmes is a freshman and will be back next year.

The long unsettled question of ineligibility, which has kept Hubert Armstrong, former U. C. end, up in the air ever since enrolling here, will be brought before a meeting of Southern California junior college conference officials next week. It is understood, Coach Cook believes the husky red-head has a fair chance to become eligible, but N. Robertson.

DOVE HUNT SEASON CLOSES OCTOBER 31

Dove hunting season in Southern California will end at sunset October 31, according to information received from the state division of fish and game. Counties affected include Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Riverside, San Diego, Orange, Imperial, Inyo and Mono. The districts are 4, 4 1/2 and 4 3/4.

From all information that can be gathered the past season has been one of the best dove years sportmen have experienced in a long time. An official report from Jack Boaz, from the bureau of education and research of the division of fish and game, revealed that "many limits of doves were checked by the wardens throughout the districts of Southern California. A great abundance of these birds were especially evident in the Imperial county. From all reports and appearances this species of upland game bird is on the increase."

WEST WINDS

Here and There in Local Sport

By EDDIE WEST

DONS BURY THE HATCHET Santa Ana-Compton hatchet was buried.

The genial deacon, otherwise Earl and incidentally a Santa Ana by birth and brother Elk by desire, is head of the Compton junior college athletic department.

Respecting Santa Anas and Santa Ana sportsmanship, Pine mildly remonstrates against inferences from some quarters that Compton jayvee plays "dirty football."

Nobody has ever questioned Pine's sportsmanship or integrity, but some raised eyebrows the day Compton's football team rendered virtually null and void the gridmen from Santa Ana junior college.

Compton was penalized 195 yards for various alleged rule infractions, but won, pulled up, 27 to 0.

Half a dozen Dons were crippled during the process.

So naturally the reaction of Santa Ana's Coach Bill Cook made interesting reading. Cook told reporters enough; that he wasn't at all satisfied with the speed with which the Tartars operated their shift.

Cook is a sunny, optimistic little fellow, and I've never known him to be unless he was hurt. But he said he was hurt at Compton. He was honest enough to say so, and to hold his ground.

Then "Deacon" Pine came clean, avoided what might have been an open break between the two colleges. Sometimes molehills become mountains, you know.

We respect Santa Ana and Santa Ana sportsmanship; the diplomatic Deacon declared. "We have enjoyed athletic relations with Santa Ana, hope they continue. We certainly regret this unpleasantness."

"We frankly admit our shift was irregular. The men were over-aged, frequently beat the gun. But officials ignored that, penalized us instead on technicalities unnecessarily. The officiating was solely responsible for the trouble."

"When we heard that Santa Ana suffered several severe injuries we immediately called a meeting of players. We asked the men point-blank whether they had used illegal tactics during that game. All demurred, although two said they may possibly have been unnecessarily rough once or twice. They were extremely penitent."

Coach Pine was here yesterday, conferred with Coach Cook.

Difficulties were ironed out to their mutual satisfaction. The other day, when the centers squared off Darracq's opposition, one Roe, proved to be a 230-pound spruce soaring 6 feet 6 inches.

Let's see now. Where ARE those folk who said Jimmy Musick wouldn't do in that Trojan lineup? I haven't seen them all week.

Two days before the Troy-Bear collision, William A. Cowley, Santa Ana, attending the University of California, wrote to me this:

"Here is one you are going to miss. You undoubtedly will pick U. S. C. to beat Cal. next Saturday by about 20.0. My prediction is that Cal. will beat U. S. C. 7-6. Pile this away until after Saturday, then congratulate me on picking the right team."

Well, Cowley missed it, but he came a whale of a lot closer than anybody who was brave enough to go on record. Cowley must have known something. From now on he is this department's No. 1 Berkeley operative.

Joe Darracq, Fullerton HI captain last fall, is centering for that great California freshman team. Six-two, 183 pounds, Little Joe was considered a man's man until the Bear Cubs played Bakersfield jayvee the

Cook's charges threatened once more, but poor execution of two passes, a weak spot in the offense, lost the ball.

Lo Roy Levens, nimble-hoofed fullback, was the man of the hour, his outstanding offensive work forcing the tiff. Bruce Harnois and Larry Velarde showed up in the backfield while Plocton, Downie and Maynard shared honors in the forward wall. Bob Tannenbaum turned in his usual steady game at the blocking position.

Some Harvard journalism, expressed editorially several years ago in the Crimson, school paper, played a part in the severance of football relations with Princeton. Now, an editorial in the Crimson can see no reason for a football game between Harvard and Army because of "an absence of interests common to Harvard men and the United States Military academy."

Perhaps if the Crimson tried hard enough, it could find an utter lack of reasons for Harvard playing anybody at all.

It is easy to understand the Crimson when it says the Army eligibility rule, under which a cadet who has played three years of football at another college may still play for Army, is a point against the game.

But that "absence of interests" is something else again. What do

SANTA ANA 'C' TEAM DEFEATS OILERS, 14-0

By BOB SPURGEON

Things are looking better all the time of Coach Clyde (SI) Cook's Santa Ana high school Class C football team. Every time the boys have a game or scrimmage, new possibilities and hopes are found.

Yesterday, however, came the best work of the season when the Cookmen shellacked the "Cees" from Huntington Beach, 14-0.

A fact largely responsible for the triumph was that for the first time the Saint offense really clicked. Invariably, opposing ends and backs found themselves ironed out to make way for substantial Saint gains. The blocking backs were right up to par. Also a vast improvement was noticed in the blocking of the linemen.

The first Santa Ana touchdown came in the first quarter when Willie Mitchell, an end, fell on a fumbled punt in the proximity of the Oiler's 25-yard line. On the next play, Fullback Levens skirted right end for a first down. From there, a series of bucks put it over, Velarde doing the work. Levens converted.

The other touchdown was made just before the end of the second period. Halfback Bennett sneaked up on a flat pass and intercepted it on his own 30-yard line from which he had a clear field to a touchdown. The conversion came on a pass from Harnois to Tannenbaum.

Cook's charges threatened once more, but poor execution of two passes, a weak spot in the offense, lost the ball.

Lo Roy Levens, nimble-hoofed fullback, was the man of the hour, his outstanding offensive work forcing the tiff. Bruce Harnois and Larry Velarde showed up in the backfield while Plocton, Downie and Maynard shared honors in the forward wall. Bob Tannenbaum turned in his usual steady game at the blocking position.

DOVE HUNT SEASON CLOSES OCTOBER 31

Dove hunting season in Southern California will end at sunset October 31, according to information received from the state division of fish and game. Counties affected include Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Riverside, San Diego, Orange, Imperial, Inyo and Mono. The districts are 4, 4 1/2 and 4 3/4.

From all information that can be gathered the past season has been one of the best dove years sportmen have experienced in a long time. An official report from Jack Boaz, from the bureau of education and research of the division of fish and game, revealed that "many limits of doves were checked by the wardens throughout the districts of Southern California. A great abundance of these birds were especially evident in the Imperial county. From all reports and appearances this species of upland game bird is on the increase."

NEWPORT HEIGHTS, Oct. 28.—The most exciting place, by far, in the harbor district yesterday, was the Kerr garage on Westminister and Old County road, the polling place for the annexation election. Sixty-four votes were cast against annexation, while 34 votes favored the project.

Out of 101 registered qualified voters, 101 votes were cast; but those were spoiled.

The section proposed for annexation embraced from the "Old County" road up Newport boulevard to Sixteenth street, east on Sixteenth street to the high school and thence over to the Newport Heights portion already in the city.

This election seemed to stir up more interest among property owners than any previous contest in years, considering the small area affected.

According to members of the election board, the whole community stood in waiting until the count was made.

Election officers were Mrs. O. H. Ensign, Mrs. R. C. Bell and Fred Kenline.

Some oil men are expecting the increase in price to go into effect about November 15, but a majority claim that an agreement has been reached by the larger companies to put the increase into effect in December.

RARE QUILTS EXHIBITED AT CLUB SESSION

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Oct. 28.—An old fashioned party characterized the meeting of the Woman's club Tuesday, an open meeting to which all the women of the city were invited and which was largely attended. The members of the executive board, including the club officers, were old fashioned gowns and hats. A pot luck dinner was served at noon with Mrs. Call Berrey, Mrs. Jake Proctor, Mrs. R. E. McIntosh and Mrs. James Ralston as hostesses. Following the dinner a display of old fashioned quilts and fancy work was inspected.

Miss Marion Parker of Laguna Beach, speaker for the day, brought a remarkable display of fancy work and quilting. The articles shown were mostly hand work of the women of the Kentucky mountains. A drought of 26 weeks left the mountain region residents without funds and the women gave the articles on display to Miss Parker to be sold and the money sent to them to help them buy food for their families and their livestock through the winter.

There were over 50 hand made quilts in the display at the clubhouse in addition to the collection shown by Miss Parker. Mrs. Ruby Hassen displayed a quilt made by her grandmother in 1837. Mrs. Harvey S. Young displayed a wavy quilt made by her mother who gathered the herbs and made the dyes, sheared the sheep and carded the wool and spun it. Originated the design and wove it into the beautiful piece which Mrs. Young treasures as an heirloom. Mrs. W. T. Newland brought some quilts she received as a present on her wedding day 56 years ago. Mrs. A. B. Dinmore brought a very beautiful quilt she had made 50 years ago.

The club rooms were decorated with Halloween designs and the affair was one of the most pleasant club functions of the year. Mrs. Juanita Ross of Anaheim, chairman of the music committee of the Orange County Federated Women's clubs, sang "Annie Laurie," "Last Rose of Summer" and a Negro spiritual, "Nobody Knows De Trouble I See." Mrs. Roy K. Smith read "My Grandmother's Patchwork Quilt" and "Auntie Pine Today." Mrs. Marion Miller, club president, presided at the meeting. Mrs. Harvey S. Young played a piano number.

The Lions club of Laguna Beach, active in boys' work, will stage a real old-fashioned Halloween party in the auditorium of the grammar school. In addition to the entertainment, there will be ducking for apples, races for boys and girls around the building, with mouths full of water and spooky games and stories. Most of the children will be in costume. S. A. Hayward is chairman of the Lions committee and serving with him are C. Addison Van Loenen, eighth grade teacher, and Oscar Hammerstein. ### $20,000 BOND PROJECT IS APPROVED BY BREA VOTERS

BREA, Oct. 28.—By a vote of 77 to 212, voters of Brea yesterday approved a $20,000 bond issue.

The money will be expended on new water lines in the city of Brea, with most of the money being paid out for labor.

The bond issue was advanced as a measure to aid unemployed men of the district. Actual work is scheduled to get under way immediately as the city council will use money from the general fund pending sale of the bonds voted yesterday.

A mass meeting of voters was held in the city hall Monday night, when all angles of the project were explained by city council and chamber of commerce workers.

C. OF C. BACKS PLAN FOR NEW WATER SYSTEM

PLACENTIA, Oct. 28.—Placentia Chamber of Commerce directors approved the report of the special water investigation committee and voted to ask the county welfare committee, Mrs. Nellie Gline, chairman, to continue to act as a clearing house of unemployment and relief at the regular luncheon meeting yesterday noon at the chamber of commerce hall.

The water committee, after deliberation with the head of the American States Water company last Tuesday, recommended that the city trustees make a thorough investigation of water rates and the system, and if they found they could not supply water cheaper and with better service, that they install their own plant. Le Roy Lyon made the water report.

R. D. Flaherty, secretary of the Orange County Farm bureau, reported on the raise in railroad rates, declaring that the proposed 15 per cent raise in rates will not take effect, it was killed through co-operation of shipping organizations, and that the increase in citrus shipments is about $3.50 per car, which he doubts will really go into effect.

After considerable discussion on unemployment, considering the best means of relieving any Placentians in need, it was proposed to handle the situation as it had been handled last year.

H. H. Hale suggested that each city should care for its own, and that the county should care for the unemployed outside the cities.

"You know—what's happened?" I asked, but he stopped me at once. "My God, yes," he said. "And I tell you, Earl, no matter what you've done, I'll stand by you."

"I was still too dazed to wonder what he meant, but he was somebody to cling to. He was somebody that had reached me from the world outside—the world outside Luna. There wasn't any point now in sending the radiogram to my father. Jake was so much nearer. I held out my hand to him, and he gripped it."

"I've got to have time to think," he said. "The assistant's coming in to relieve me in a few minutes. He mustn't find you here."

"I certainly didn't feel much like meeting strangers. I was suddenly awfully tired, and willing enough to do whatever Jake said. I was too tired to ask questions, or even to think them."

"You slip back to your room now," he ordered. "As soon as I'm free I'll come down to you. Don't go out again—wait for me."

"I gave him the number of my cabin, and stumbled out. It must have been on the way back that the passenger saw me, for I'd been back only a few minutes when Jake burst open the door without knocking."

"My God, Earl, they've caught you!" he said. "The captain's just sent a message—"

"I had just time to think that I must really have gone over the line—that this was insanity. I'd read about people who saw and heard things that weren't there. Either Jake was crazy, or Jake wasn't there at all."

"I reached out, wondering if he'd vanish if I tried to touch him. But at that moment there came a tap at the door, and a steward told me the captain wanted to see me immediately."

"I know," Peter nodded. "The captain told me about that part. He put you on your honor not to try to escape. And then you did it. Peter's lips were clamped on his pipe in a stern line."

"Yes," Vincent admitted with curious calm. "I did, I was a coward."

"Oh—no!" The words burst furiously from Ruth's lips in a gasp of protest.

Peter glanced at her with quick sympathy. Cowardice would be very hard for her to comprehend. Would she understand the underlying depth of courage required to admit the malign triumph of fear?

"I didn't know—" The blank incomprehension in her voice was more accusing than the bitterest reproach.

That Captain Marquand put me on my word of honor—and I broke that word!"

Earl had forgotten Peter. He looked straight across the room at Ruth, and as he looked, he pulled himself erect. It was thus, Peter thought as he watched him, that a

SHOE CONTEST DRAWING NEAR TO CLOSE HERE

When Serene and Fulkerson go on the air tonight over KREG from 6:45 to 7 p. m. announcement will be made that the shoe endurance contest being sponsored by the store will end this week. The last pair of $8.50 shoes will be awarded and the old shoes secured through this contest will be turned over to the Salvation Army.

While the contest has been run without obligating contestants to buy, a special offer has been made to encourage competition this week. Every contestant entering a pair of shoes in the contest will be allowed credit of $1 on the purchase of a new pair. While this allowance will be made, contestants will not be urged to buy.

The reason for this additional offer, according to officials of the store, is that a certain number of old shoes was promised the Salvation Army and the extra award is being made to make sure the shoes are on hand.

Prizes are being awarded on the basis of the shoes that have traveled the greatest number of useful miles. All shoes entered in the contest will be given the Salvation Army for repairing and distribution among the needy of the city.

In Port.. but the Captain still commands

HOURS WILL PASS before the ship casts loose. But the captain is always in command. Already his able staff is at work, carrying out his orders for the stowage of cargo.

To the landsman, the stowing of tons of merchandise indeed appears complex. But under experienced direction, the job moves smoothly to completion.

California's steamship companies, operating more than 450 vessels, carry passengers and cargoes throughout the seven seas.

This far-flung business uses Bank of America's equally widespread service in many ways.

A ship puts into port, miles from home. Supplies are needed; payrolls must be met; sometimes emergencies arise.

Through Bank of America's unique statewide and worldwide service, funds are available in any port of the world.

Business contacts with shippers are brought about. Domestic and foreign collections are facilitated.

And Bank of America provides quick, safe transmission of funds from passenger and freight offices to central accounts. Thus, company funds are kept active, and economies effected.

At a nearby branch, you can secure the same resourceful banking service, which has won the confidence of California's leading industries.

ADVISOR URGES IRRIGATION OF WALNUT TREES

Harvest season will soon be complete in practically all walnut orchards of the county. There are several steps to which the grower must give consideration in this early fall season, among the most important of which is post-harvest irrigation, according to Harold E. Wahlberg, farm advisor of Orange county.

"Examination of soils in several orchards has shown that the moisture conditions are unsatisfactory and will become increasingly so if the weather remains dry and warm," Wahlberg said. "Leaf drop has not been heavy where adequate moisture has been present. An irrigation of from three to five inches will prevent trees losing their leaves before normal dormancy approaches. It also will make more efficient any early rainfall which may occur."

"In connection with this irrigation it is well to consider the subject of pruning and planting of cover crops. It would be better to irrigate the land before pruning is done, as the delay incurred in case the soil was inclined to be dry would probably result in leaf drop from drought. Pruning can well be postponed until November, with cover crop planting immediately following."

In districts subject to winds growers often delay irrigation until after the wind period. In such cases the pruning and irrigation operations may be reversed, Wahlberg advised.

"Many growers are finding their trees too close together for the greatest efficiency and must plan on thinning the orchard in order to eliminate the crowded condition. It is a well recognized fact that trees which are crowded do not grow as rapidly or produce the tonnage of walnuts possible when adequate sunlight is available. Definite plans for thinning should be made along with the fall pruning scheme."

The farm advisor has accumulated considerable yield data during the past decade, conclusively showing increased production and quality from a judicious thinning out of crowded walnut orchards.

High Grades Win Recognition For 11 J. C. Students

Following completion of grade points for the past semester at Santa Ana Junior college, an announcement that 11 new members have been added to Phi Theta Kappa, national honorary scholastic society, comes today from Lella B. Watson, faculty advisor of the group. From approximately 600 students Helen Campbell, Constance Fox, Eugenia Gire, Mary Lou Heath, Elmer Kogler, Gladys Lloyd, Helen McArthur, Val Jean McCoy, Allice Meyers, Lois Read, and Florence Resnick were chosen on the basis of previous grade records to become members of the society.

Formal initiation and reception of the members of Phi Theta Kappa will be held in the "Y" hut on the campus Friday evening, November 6, Miss Watson said.

Phi Theta Kappa is the national junior college branch of Phi Beta Kappa, honor society for four year institutions, and to attain membership it is necessary for a student to maintain an average of 32 grade points for two preceding semesters, or approximately a B plus average, Miss Watson said.

BEET ACREAGE INCREASED BY CROP ROTATION

BY ERIC E. EASTMAN
Assistant Farm Advisor

A recent visit to the Springvale ranch near Oxnard, which has been owned and operated by the American Beet Sugar company for approximately 18 years, showed a 20-ton sugar beet crop in process of being harvested.

This land has been rotated with alfalfa, beans and beets; the beets averaging every other year in the rotation. The yields per acre have shown a regular and steady increase in tonnage and the sugar content has been maintained, according to J. W. Rooney, who is the manager of the company in Southern California. Mr. Rooney believes that this ranch demonstrates clearly that where a proper crop rotation system is practiced, that sugar beets do not deplete the soil, as is sometimes argued as an objection to the crop.

The leaf spot disease was very bad this year on the Springvale ranch, and indeed was rather prevalent all over Southern California. This disease affects the outer leaves first, causing them to succumb; the plant continues to develop new leaves from the bud, and the crown may thus become considerably lengthened out, at a serious sacrifice to root development and probably at great loss to the sugar content.

A practical control for the sugar beet acreage has not been worked out. Where small areas are concerned the fungus that causes the disease can usually be prevented from gaining entrance to the leaves by early spring spraying with Bordeaux mixture, according to Prof. B. M. Dugger's text on "The Fungus Diseases of Plants."

A certain amount of rot was also observed, which Mr. Rooney believed was due to late and heavy irrigation on the heavy soil. This condition was also frequently seen in the other sugar beet areas this season.

SUPERVISORS ADVISED OF WATER MENACE

With the idea of assuring the continued purity of Orange county's underground water supply, the board of supervisors yesterday referred to the county health department a letter from Mrs. Susan Bixby Bryant, who has considerable acreage in the Santa Ana canyon, in which she called attention to a statement by a state inspector that Riverside and San Bernardino are discharging sewage into the Santa Ana river.

Her letter was referred to the health department for reply.

Mrs. Bryant became aware of the situation when Edward Brown, supervisor of camp inspection in the state department of industrial relations, division of immigration and housing, notified her of a report on the water supply of ranch camps at Rancho Santa Ana, her property in the Santa Ana canyon. The report, made by Camp Inspector Rugg, said that the water supply, "obtained from an irrigation ditch, is known to be contaminated and unfit for domestic purposes."

"I believe that the question of dumping sewage into the river should have your immediate attention," Mrs. Bryant's letter said, "because hundreds of Orange county families take their domestic supply out of the channel of the Santa Ana river and from irrigation ditches belonging to the Anaheim Union Water company and the Santa Ana Valley Irrigation company."

An inquiry to the state health department by Gibson, Dunn and Crutcher, Los Angeles attorneys, elicited the information that both cities hold permits from the health department, that of San Bernardino for the disposal of chlorinated sprinkling effluent into Warm creek and that of Riverside to dispose of raw or partially settled sewage on the Riverside sewer farm, near the confluence of the old and new channels of the Santa Ana river.

The letter said that inspections since the permit was granted "indicate that sewage that is not infected has been reaching the river, but only after it had traversed a long distance and had undergone modification which appeared to be fully tantamount to disinfection."

The letter also said that the Riverside permit had a condition attached to the effect that raw or uninfected sewage should not be discharged into the Santa Ana river.

PROPOSED NEW FREIGHT RATES FAVOR STATE

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 28.—From information gained from press reports, the rate department of the California Railroad commission has made an analysis of the interstate commerce commission's decision on the railroads' petition for a 15 per cent increase in rates. The analysis of the decision shows:

1. A horizontal 15% increase in rates has been flatly denied, the commission declaring that such an increase would increase revenues, if at all, only temporarily, and that its ultimate effect would probably be to harm rather than to help the railroads.

2. Subject to the carriers being able to agree upon the novel idea of pooling earnings, the commission will permit nominal increases in cents per 100 lbs. or per car on certain commodities for a temporary period only. Adoption by the interstate commerce commission of this principle in rate making, namely, that rate increases be made on a flat rather than on a percentage basis, is what carriers long have sought. The analyses of the rate experts show that the percentage basis for rate increases works to the disadvantage of producers far from their markets, and to the competitive advantage of producers within a short haul of their markets. As California markets much of its products in the middle west and in the east at higher rates than its competitors, California producers have been penalized for many years under the percentage method of freight increases, because under this plan the shippers paying the higher rate bear a greater increase in cents per 100 lbs. or per car than those paying lower rates. The abandonment of this method and the adoption of the "flat increase" plan marks a distinct victory for this state.

3. The decision of the interstate commerce commission permits some flat increases subject to the carriers being able to agree upon the novel idea of pooling earnings, but the increases granted on certain stated commodities are nominal in amount and for a temporary period only, and will not be unduly burdensome upon the industries concerned.

4. The increase if made will apply on interstate traffic only. The roads have filed applications with the state commission, including the California commission, but the proceedings pending before the state commissions have not been heard at the request of the carriers.

DENY DANCE HALL LICENSE; ACCEPT ROAD

A variety of matters ranging from dance-hall permits to dredging were handled by the board of supervisors yesterday afternoon. The application for a permit to open the old Bear cafe near Westminster as a dance hall met with disfavor and was denied, after having been before the board since the previous meeting. The building has no windows from which a view from the outside is obtainable. A petition for a dance hall permit in a packing house on the Blinge property, introduced last week, did not come up for action yesterday.

The board, in accordance with an agreement reached last week with James Irvine Jr., granted the Irvine company permission to dredge in Newport bay near the new bridge being constructed on the Coast highway. The material dredged will be placed on either side of the bay to raise the level of the land there. Dredging also will deepen the channel 10 feet and remove mud flats.

The first section of the relocated Santiago road, made necessary by construction of the Santiago dam, was accepted by the board from J. P. Berne, contractor.

Protest Three Arches Road

Fourteen letters addressed to Supervisor George Jeffrey were before the board, all of them from property owners at Three Arches, protesting against acceptance by the county of a road in a subdivision there. The board has been enjoined from accepting the road temporarily and the matter is now pending in superior court here. An order to show cause, directed against the supervisors, has been taken off the calendar and the board has been given an extension of time from October 24 in which to answer the complaint.

The board received an invitation from the Orange county council of the American Legion to hear an address in the high school auditorium on November 6 by Justice E. J. Marks of the fourth district appellate court and former superior judge here. Justice Marks, who formerly commanded the council and was commander of the Fullerton post, will speak on the Legion's position in relation to questions of the day.

J.C. Yearbook Wins High Ranking In Open Competition

Carrying off first-class honor rating in competition with yearbooks from junior colleges of 500 or more enrollment, the 1931 edition of Del Ana yearbook of the Santa Ana Junior college, scored a total of 895 points out of a possible 1000, according to a report just received from the National Scholastic Press association by L. L. Beeman, Del Ana advisor.

Betty Maloney, of Santa Ana, and at present a student in Oregon State college, was editor of the book which received the Grade A rating. Art work, editing, and mechanical supervision were considered particularly excellent, according to the score sheet submitted by the association.

The 1931 Del Ana was printed under the direction of Thomas E. Williams, head of the college printing department, with Willard Francis, Jack Reed, and Alfred Hastie doing most of the mechanical work.

Duane Green, publications editor for the last edition, has been chosen by the college executive board as editor-in-chief of the 1932 edition.

SCOUTS PLAN WINTER SPORTS IN MOUNTAINS

Christmas winter camp at Rokill, in the San Bernardino mountains, will be attended by scores of Boy Scouts from troops over the entire county. It is expected as a result of preparations that are being made for the outing. This is the first year that the camp will be open for the winter vacation period, from December 19 to 23, according to Harrison E. White, county Scout executive, who is in charge.

Skiing, tobogganing and snow sports will be arranged for those making the trip. It is planned. Work of constructing the toboggan slides is now under way, it is reported.

Several of the cabins at the camp are being specially renovated for protection of the boys from dangers of exposure in the snow drifts. John Coleman, camp keeper, is at work making the necessary changes.

According to White, the entire cost of the trip, including transportation, will be covered by $5 an

DISABLED VETS WILL DISCUSS PENSION PLANS

Disabled World War veterans living in Orange county are reported to be anxiously awaiting action at the Jack Fisher chapter, D. A. V., at their meeting tonight when members are scheduled to discuss proposals considered to be against the best interest of veterans now receiving government compensation.

Chapter officers have received an important message from the D. A. V. legislation chairman at Washington, D. C. relative to the plans of Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the Veterans' Welfare administration, to standardize relief to recipients of all wars and place all recipients on a pension basis. This move will be fought strenuously by the Disabled American Veterans of the World War who will endeavor to secure the support of all other veteran organizations. All world war veterans enjoying the present scale of compensation are urgently asked to be present at this important meeting and advise themselves at the earliest opportunity with the Jack Fisher chapter, D. A. V., of Orange county.

Representatives of all veteran organizations throughout Orange county will be the guests of the D. A. V. organization at this session and a representative gathering of veterans of all wars is expected at this big rally. Harry S. Pickard, commander of Jack Fisher chapter, will preside and predicts the largest and most enthusiastic gathering of disabled veterans ever assembled in this part of Southern California.

After the business schedule has been completed the chapter will be joined by members of the Jack Fisher auxiliary in a social time, at which time Perry Cooper will supervise the refreshments.

Individual. Most of the supplies for the commissary are already in camp. Construction of the new high-gear road by San Bernardino county will make possible the trip, for the road will be kept open throughout the winter. It has been announced.

Assisting White in the camp will be Al Spencer, Newport Beach eagle Scout, county scoutmaster who are able to make the trip, and several county eagle Scouts experienced in camping.

Mrs. Northcross Plans Pleasant Affair for Tavern Tattlers

As a welcome to their ten new members, members of the Tavern Tattlers, literary organization of the junior college, were entertained last evening in the home of one of the advisors, Mrs. Robert Northcross, 1515 Spurgeon street.

New members were welcomed by informal speeches given by the president, Misses Elizabeth Skiles, Miss Betty James, Miss Jane Cunningham, Miss Mary Mater, Miss Elva Cook, Bernard Sharpley and Wilton Hillard, who spoke on the founding of the club, its purpose, its past and future activities, and its selection of new members.

Guests then were seated at tables, where places were marked by clover and tallies in the form of diamonds, hearts, spades, and clubs, and several rounds of bridge were enjoyed.

When tallies were checked, Bernard and Sharpley was awarded a handsome prize for men's high score, while Miss Goldie Peale was presented with the women's prize. Those not caring to partake in bridge found a great source of interest in the collection of books, magazines and literature, brought by the hostess on her return from Europe, where she spent the summer.

Card tables were then re-arranged with crisp linens, and an appetizing refreshment course of avocado sandwiches and coffee, and ice cream and wafers were served, with an accompaniment of nuts and candies.

New members will be formally initiated at the next regular meeting, which will take place in the junior college library, the second Tuesday in November, at this time, original contributions from the entering members will be read.

Those present in addition to the hostess, Mrs. Robert Northcross, who was assisted by Miss Miriam Samulson, social chairman, and Miss Betty James, program chairman, were Miss Agnes Todd Miller, other advisor to the club, and the Misses Eugenia Gire, Jane Cunningham, Elizabeth Skiles, Goldie Peale, Mary Louise Wallace, Mary Maeter, Celestia Straub, Elva Cook, Mrs. Ruth McNeil, and Messrs. ## Costa Mesa Church is Setting for Wedding Of Young Couple

One of the loveliest autumn weddings was solemnized Sunday afternoon, October 24, at 3 o'clock in the Costa Mesa Community church, when Miss Mary Lois Robertson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Robertson, of Albert Place, Costa Mesa, and Lisle Farquhar of Redlands, exchanged vows before 175 relatives and friends, the Rev. Walter S. Buchanan, pastor of the First Christian church of Santa Ana, officiated.

The pretty edifice, which is particularly adapted to such happy events, had been made all the more beautiful by many large baskets of goldenrod, interspersed with blue daisies and ferns, grouped amid stately evergreens and palms.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Virginia Pope of this city sang "Because" (Guy d'Harleod), and "I Love You Truly" (Carrie Jacobs Bond), accompanied on the organ by Mrs. E. L. Bennett, who also played several beautiful organ numbers.

Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" heralded the approach of the wedding party, the bride entering with her father. She was attractively gowned in bride's satin, the whole ensemble of which was accented with a filmy veil and shower bouquet of valley lilies and maidenhair fern tied with myriads of dainty white satin ribbons. Her only ornament was a pretty lavender with diamond setting, the gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. H. H. Fisher (Marie Caruthers) was a charming matron of honor, wearing her own wedding gown of dainty pink sweet peas, Mrs. Fisher was a recent bride.

The bridesmaids were Miss Margaret Robertson, sister of the bride, who wore peach satin and carried lavender sweet peas; and Miss Alma Freer of Orange, who wore a chic green satin frock, and carried pink sweet peas.

Charles Richard of Santa Ana attended Mrs. Farquhar as best man. Edward Ham of Balboa and Charles Lamb of Whittier were ushers.

The ceremony, in which the double ring ceremony was used, was most impressive, a musical background being provided by Mrs. Bennett, who played "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life."

An informal reception in the church was followed by a wedding supper served to members of the wedding party and Mr. and Mrs. George MacLeod of Balboa, E. L. Bennett, and Harry H. Fisher, chief officer on the "City of Panama." The bride carried out the age-old custom of cutting her own wedding cake.

Following a ten days' honeymoon in northern California, Mr. and Mrs. Farquhar will be at home to their friends in Redlands, where Mr. Farquhar is connected with the Motor Transit company. A second wedding trip is planned to provide a pleasant afternoon. Attractive prizes are in readiness. PRECISE ROASTING GIVES COFFEE THE PERFECT FLAVOR
Bulk Methods Can't Equal Flavor That Patented Process Develops in Hills Bros. Coffee
The perfect flavor of coffee is indeed a delight to the taste. But you don't get the perfect flavor, unless your coffee has been roasted evenly. Hills Bros. Coffee always is. It's roasted by the patented, Controlled Roasting process.
As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow... a little at a time... so the uniform flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by this patented process that roasts evenly, continuously... a little at a time. Each berry receives an even roast. None is underdone, none overdone.
Such uniformity is not the case with coffee roasted by ordinary bulk methods. For big batches can't be exactly controlled. The coffee may be roasted a bit too much, or not enough. If either happens, you don't get the perfect flavor that Controlled Roasting never fails to achieve.
Hills Bros. Coffee is strictly fresh, because it's packed in vacuum cans. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed and kept out of these cans. Ordinary, "air-tight" cans won't keep coffee fresh. But Hills Bros. Coffee can't go stale! Order some today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trademark on the can.

Another Gem From Ann's Collection
Today's recipe from the collection I am using is—

WHITE FLUFF SALAD
1 small white cabbage
1 pound marshmallows
1 large can grated pineapple
1-2 cup tart mayonnaise
Salt and white pepper
1 cup chopped pecans or walnuts

Strip off all tough outside leaves and grate the head of cabbage into a bowl of ice water (use the cabbage shredder for grating). Put the bowl into the refrigerator and let the cabbage crisp and chill for at least two hours. Fifteen minutes before the salad is used, turn the cabbage into a colander to drain as dry as draining and pressure will permit.

One hour before serving open the pineapple and drain off all the juice, cut the marshmallows in small pieces and combine with the drained pineapple, adding enough mayonnaise to moisten the mixture. At serving time add the chopped nuts to the pineapple mixture, then the crisp grated cabbage. Dress with mayonnaise, season to taste and serve in molds on lettuce lined plates.

***
This is an ideal luncheon or supper salad to be served with some sort of a hot savory dish and hot bread. Serving dessert after such a salad is like gliding the lily.

TODAY'S RECIPE

DUTCH BEANS

2 cups dried red beans
1-2 pound piece of bacon or fat salt pork
2 whole onions, medium size
1 can tomato puree
Salt, pepper, paprika, cayenne
Here is a main dish combining the virtues of meat and potatoes. Be sure to serve a leafy cooked vegetable and a salad to offset the heavy proteins and fats in the bean dish.

By "leafy vegetable," I mean any vegetable growing above ground that is the outgrowth of leafy tissue. Winter squash is not a leafy vegetable while cauliflower and cabbage both are.

But let's get back to our beans—Soak the beans in tepid water for a few hours, change the water and boil them for 30 minutes. Drain again and rinse in fresh water. Put back into the cooking kettle with the solid chunk of bacon, bacon-back or good dry salt pork. Cover beans with water and simmer until tender, adding water as needed. When the beans have cooked for one hour drop the two whole onions into the center of the kettle and continue with the cooking. At serving time add the can of tomato puree, increase the heat and cook 15 minutes longer. Season as desired.

This recipe will take care of eight and probably leave some over. The individual caloric totals will be close to 500 each. Fat and energy making foods predominate, but properly offset by low-caloric vegetables and dessert of fruit, they take their proper place in the diet of moderation.

Oven baked dinners offers you three menus, one of which can be done in 30 minutes... recipes, of course, and all yours for the expense of sending in a stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing purposes.

***
Thursday's lesson will feature a recipe for Pineapple Muffins. Try them for Sunday morning breakfast... they're grand!

'SMART WOMEN' OPENS SHOWING AT WEST COAST

"The story's the thing"—especially when interpreted by such a capable array of talent as that in Radio Pictures' "Smart Woman," which opens today at the Fox West Coast theater.

That sums up Radio Pictures' latest film, a fast-moving comedy drama cleverly adapted from Myron C. Fagan's stage play, "Nancy's Private Affairs." It has to do with a disillusioned wife who has some smart ideas on how to bring hubby, who has fallen into the clutches—or clinches—of a pair of designing femmes, back to the family hearthstone.

Ten well-known names appear in the cast—Mary Astor as the loving and domestic wife who galvanizes into action when she learns her husband's love is at stake; Robert Ames opposite her; Edward Everett Horton in the hilarious role of a hypochondriac—similar to that he played in "The Nervous Wreck," popular stage play; Noel Francis, former Follies star; Ruth Weston, John Halliday, Gladys Paley, Alfred Cross, Pearl Varville and Lillian Harmer.

Lavish sets of Georgian Colonial period, beautiful exterior settings, and the latest in women's and men's modes and fashions form the background of this ultra-fashionable domestic drama.

Henry characters. # THE TINYMITES

STORY BY MAI COCHRAN — PICTURES BY KNICK
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

The Tynmites slept very sound. No wonder! 'Twas because they found the bed they snuggled in nice and soft and they were all tired out. The Travel Man, who'd tucked them in, walked in at dawn and spread a grin. And then he woke the whole bunch with a loud good morning shout.

"Wake up!" he cried. "Hop to your feet. Get dressed and well step out to eat. The sun, just rising over the hill, is beautiful to see. The morning air will bring you pep, when right out into it you step. We mustn't waste time sleeping. There are heaps we want to see."

"Okay!" replied the Tynmites. "We're always ready for new sights. Then up they jumped. It didn't take them very long to dress. 'And now for breakfast,' Scouty cried. 'And, after that, a walk, or ride. I'm going to eat an awful lot. I'm nearly starved, I guess!'

Hot buckwheat cakes were served the bunch. "Gee, we will never want much lunch," said Clowny, as he started in. "We'll eat too much right here. I fear, when I am finally through, just loafing's all I'll want to do. I hope, when we walk out, that we will find a park bench near."

But it was not as bad as that. 'Cause for an hour they simply sat and rested in the restaurant. The Travel Man then said, "Come, kids, we'll walk along the street and see what strangers we can meet." They'd hardly reached outdoors till Copy shouted, "Look ahead!" "That man is surely loaded down. I don't see how he gets around."

The fellow he referred to had large sashes on his back. Then Scouty said, "They're earthenware. That man is strong. He doesn't care how much they weigh. I'd think that he would drop right in his track."

RUTLEDGE WILL SELECT OTHERS IN AID PLAN

Representing Orange county on President Hoover's Unemployment Relief national committee, C. E. Rutledge, president of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, announced today that work of the national committee in this county will be carried on by subcommittees headed by men and women representative of every community and will function as a co-operative organization with the relief agencies already established in each community.

He said, "It is not the purpose of the group to which I have been named chairman to tear down the work of committees already organized. We will be available to assist them in carrying on a co-ordinated county effort and will always be available in any capacity the local committees care to use."

The principal function of the Hoover committee in this county will be to prevent the overlapping of relief work and conducting investigations for groups already organized. Our group has not been organized to give direct relief but to work out plans and co-operate with local groups in providing work for those who want work and to provide new work to relieve any situation that might arise during the winter.

Form Sub-Committees
Several sub-committees are to be formed in Orange county by Rutledge, who will name the chairman and allow them to appoint their own aides. These chairmen, Rutledge said, will not be named until he has assured himself that he has selected the best fitted man or woman available for the task.

The industrial sub-committee will be charged with the task of keeping in touch with the various industries of the county and providing workers for any jobs that might develop. A similar task will be turned over to the group on new construction. This committee will be headed by a man well acquainted with construction work in the county and in a position to know of any new projects that may be planned. The duty of this committee will be to aid in starting new construction and providing local men for the work.

A third sub-committee and one that, according to Rutledge, is one of the most important to be appointed, is the group on co-ordination of relief.

A law sub-committee will be named to advise with the sponsors of public work that might provide employment and to assist in the untangling of any legal barriers that might delay an early start of work.

An immigration sub-committee will be named to handle the task of sifting the permanent residents of each community to be appointed, is the group on co-ordination of relief.

WILL USE SCHOOL AS RELIEF OFFICE

At a meeting of the Citizens' Unemployment Relief committee's executive group here yesterday plans were started for opening of offices of the organization in the north building of the old Frances Willard Junior High school plant on North Main street.

According to Herbert Rankin, chairman of the committee, all work of the organization will be handled from that office and a definite plan for relief will be announced within a few days. The heads of various sub-committees are preparing a program of service and will be ready to start functioning when the offices are opened.

150 AT SESSION OF SCHOOLMASTERS

With 150 members in attendance the Orange County Schoolmasters' club held its fall meeting at the Newport Harbor Union High School last night, Everett A. Rae, vice principal of the harbor school, is president of the organization.

Stunts were presented by a number of Orange county teachers. John Malcom, principal at San Juan Capistrano Union High school, awarded first prize to the Huntington Beach Union High school, second to the Huntington Beach Elementary school and third to Tusin Union High school.

The club meets twice yearly. The spring meeting will be held at the Anaheim Union High school.

PENNIES RESULT IN CAPTURE OF YOUTH

Pennies proved the downfall of Oden Johnson, 19, living near Olinda.

Johnson yesterday confessed to W. H. Williams, chief of police at Brea, that he persuaded an 11-year-old boy to steal 460 pennies, a revolver and numerous other things from the home of J. Dennison near Olinda two weeks ago, promising to buy him an air rifle for his efforts, Williams said today.

When Dennison reported his loss, Williams reasoned that the work was that of a youth and asked the two banks in Brea to take a description of anyone bringing in a large number of pennies.

A few days ago Johnson appeared at one of the banks and asked for bills and silver in place of the 460 pennies. The cashier gave him the description to Williams and his arrest and confession followed.

FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(UP)—The stock market today broke to new lows for several days in more active turnover.

Heavy pressure converged most of the day on U. S. steel, the railroad shares and some of the utilities.

A rally late in the day induced by another flurry in wheat failed to hold when the grain rallied on a burst of selling at the high, which were new tops for the season.

Wall Street was pleased with the handling of the conservative party in Great Britain, but the majority of traders were apprehensive over prospects of a tariff for Britain under the new government.

HORACE FINE

Thousands of friends of Horace Fine bowed their heads in grief today when word came to them that he was dead. It was the grief that comes to men, women and children when a warm-hearted, sincere friend passes away. While there was a measure of relief in the knowledge that Horace Fine's many months of ill health and suffering were at an end, the shock of the news of his death was nevertheless deep and disquieting.

Few men in the life of Orange county during the past 40 years have been so constantly in touch with the intimate affairs of public life, as well as the private affairs of hosts of citizens, as had Horace Fine. His work as newspaperman took him into councils of every sort concerning the public. His years of experience, his wide knowledge of events, his exceptional acquaintanceship throughout the county and, above all, his sincerity and fair-mindedness, made him a citizen of great prominence and usefulness.

To him, men came with their troubles. Whether those troubles were of a business nature, whether they involved public policy or were of a strictly private, personal and confidential nature, Horace Fine could be depended upon to give his time and energy, always taxed to the utmost, necessary to render the aid sought.

No words seem adequate in paying tribute to the life of Horace Fine. There can be no measure of value of his service to the community. He was in the forefront of numberless efforts of a co-operative nature. Numerous organizations knew him as one of their best friends, and loved him and honored him.

Horace Fine was one of those rare souls whose widespread interests and activities are marked by complete kindness and unselfishness. When others were angry, Horace was calm; when others were revengeful, it was Horace who quietly urged fairness. Always it was Horace who held fast to the fundamentals of the Golden Rule. Faithful always; dependable to the maximum degree. And nobody ever knew Horace Fine to betray a trust and nobody ever knew him to do an unkind thing.

One might pause now to review the active life that Horace Fine led in Santa Ana, to point to his services in the many lines of endeavor in which he was interested. To adequately present that portion of his life's story would be impossible. Many of the connections and services rendered by Horace Fine in the youthful city of Santa Ana, in its rugged and formative period, have been almost forgotten, perhaps, though the results are lasting. Suffice it to say, however, that throughout all these years, Horace Fine contributed far more than any man's share to the upbuilding of his city and county. His shoulder was always to the wheel.

But today it is not that side of Horace Fine's life that we are thinking about. Rather it is his kindness, his friendliness, his handclasp, his willingness to help out those in trouble. Those who were nearest and dearest to him have suffered a tremendous loss. Those who worked with him, and knew the greatness of his heart and the sincerity of his soul, are saying farewell. From them it's:

"Goodbye, Horace, old scout, you were every inch a man, and every ounce a friend."

THE OUTCOME IN ENGLAND

Ramsay MacDonald has won his election to the House of Commons. And with Mr. MacDonald, it appears that the Conservatives, who rallied around the more recently-formed cabinet headed by him, will have nearly, if not quite 500 seats.

Certainly they will have enough to organize the government without any coalition. It would be partisanly possible to leave even Ramsay MacDonald himself out of it. But such an action would not carry out the spirit of the election, nor be in harmony probably with literally millions of votes that were cast for the successful candidates.

There never has been such a peculiar and striking election held in Great Britain. Probably there never has been one that has been fraught with such grave consequences. The result certainly reassures the world of the dependability of the citizens in Great Britain at the crucial hours.

It was an exceedingly serious matter when Ramsay MacDonald, in the face of an almost united Labor party, against the advice of men whose friendship he had enjoyed for years, determined to stand for reduction of the unemployment insurance, commonly spoken of as the "dole," and to cut salaries in other directions for the purpose of balancing the budget and saving the country.

It was a condition that called for broad knowledge, a patriotic attitude, and a brave heart. It was well that Great Britain had as its premier in its crucial hour a man of the type of Ramsay MacDonald.

He had proven, at other periods of his life, notably at the outbreak of the war, in taking his position against the conflict, that he was a man who could be depended upon in emergencies to sacrifice all else to his convictions. It was generally prophesied that Ramsay MacDonald would be retired from public life; that there was no possibility of his return.

Hence his election by his constituents in the face of strong opposition is the greatest individual victory of this hour in England. Undoubtedly the loss of Mr. Henderson, who was left as the leader of the Labor Party when they repudiated Mr. MacDonald, is the most serious, if not the most humiliating defeat.

The world was watching Great Britain. A victory by the Labor party under these conditions would have increased the uncertainty and unrest throughout the world, and made the conditions in England itself almost impossible. The party had no constructive program of its own. The group which is now in power will continue the program as outlined by the Coalition cabinet.

It is very probable that Ramsay MacDonald will be retained in his position. If not, it will not be carrying out the spirit of the election itself. It serves notice upon the radicals of Russia and other countries that Great Britain, even at this period of a long depression, is at heart in harmony with orderly and evolutionary, and not revolutionary processes in the solving of her economic problems.

It is unfortunate that the keen and capable mind of Mr. Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, will not be in a position to contribute as he has during the past few months particularly, to Great Britain's needs. Mr. Snowden was not a candidate for re-election. It has been only by the greatest exertion of his powerful will and strong determination, that he has been able to carry on in the face of his invalidism and his terrible physical handicap.

The world undoubtedly breathes easier today because of the result in Great Britain. It will not seriously affect the stock market today because the result had already been discounted. The result was expected, but its magnitude was greater than anticipated.

Should Music Composers "Quote?"

Christian Science Monitor

Some of England's music critics have been getting rather annoyed because one of the most popular tunes in one of the most popular musical pieces now running in London bears an astonishingly close resemblance to Sir Arthur Sullivan's celebrated air, "Till-willow." But this annoyance is not necessarily well founded. Quotations constitute one of the pleasantest joys of reading. A chief secret of the charm of Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch's lectures on literature lies in their being an excellent anthology of well-chosen passages from past writers. If judicious quotation be a virtue in literature, why should it be considered reprehensible in music?

Sullivan himself did not think it reprehensible. In fact, "Till-willow" owes more than a little to a nursery song of the mid-nineteenth century. And a correspondent of a British weekly paper has just recalled that the plaintive ditty, "Twenty Lovesick Maidens We," derives from no less unexpected a source than "Hymns, Ancient and Modern."

In fact, musical quotation is a practice justified by long and extensive use. Popular songs borrow from the classics, and the classics borrow from one another. Parts of a radio favorite now current in England recall Elgar's Cockaigne Overture, and that former best seller, "Yes, We Have No Bananas," began with Handel's Hallelujah Chorus. It is true the practice may be abused, and is not to be commended when the effect is to cheapen a noble melody.

Yet the habit of remounting a musical gem in a new and appropriate setting is not frowned on by the masters. It is said that a well-known Rondo of Beethoven is a quotation from Mozart, who again has been drawn on by Haydn in his Octet Symphony, just as Schumann quoted Scarlatti in his "Papillons No. 10." The composer of London's latest light opera need not, therefore, take his critics too seriously. He is in good company.

Liking Folks is First Requisite of Success

Riverside Enterprise

It is told of Dwight Morrow that when he was starting to Mexico as ambassador, and discussing his difficult task with a friend, he admitted that he didn't know what he could do about pending problems. But he added, "Well, I know one thing for the Mexicans. I can like them."

When you think it over, isn't that just about the biggest thing you can do for anybody? And if you have any negotiating to do, isn't it the most effective way to begin?

"Life would be so simple," a friend laments, "if it were not for human relations!"

Human problems are mostly what life is composed of. People are strange, stupid and exasperating. Whenever we have anything to do with others, we run up against misunderstandings, opposed viewpoints, conflicting interests. Yet how the obstacles usually melt away if you can just start by "liking" the other fellows!

As a human philosopher, we'll back Will Rogers against the world. And he says, "I have never met anybody I didn't like."

Animals and Audiences

New York Times

The dispatch from Brussels about the Antwerp Zoo, declaring that animals need an audience, and will not perform if there is nobody looking on, touches one of the best stories that ever came out of the North Woods.

When Paul Smith's was still a hunting lodge, a man with a trained bear is said to have stopped there one night. Near by stood a key of whisky with a dipper on top. The man and the bear par-looked at it freely and happily, with the result that while the trainer slept the bear burst his bonds and fled into the primeval forest.

All the next day his owner and a posse of guides sought him. Finally, along toward sundown, they found him, out in the middle of a clearing in the woods, faithfully going through his tricks, one after another, with nary a child to see. It was the only way he knew of getting food.

WHAT'S THE USE?

When our forefathers wanted to go anywhere
They hitched up the roan or the bay,
Or drove down the pike with a carriage or pair
Today we just back out the automobile,
Give a kick to its slumbering power,
Loll back in the seat with one hand on the wheel
And make the same trip in an hour.

When our ancestors garnered their wheat and their oats
And got in the barley and hay,
And sated with corn the importunate shoats
They toiled eighteen hours a day,
Today they are free from this grueling toil,
Performed in the sweat of the face,
For a small running stream or a few casks of oil
Will do most of the work on the place.

No longer the housewife need groan at her task,
No longer her husband's perches
At countless odd jobs, but in leisure may bask
While power is borne over wires,
Planes dart overhead at incredible speed,
Trains almost keep pace with the sun,
We folk of the present are lucky indeed
For the most of our labor is done.

Yet, if our progenitors ever returned
To spend a few days on this sphere,
They would shortly discover how little we've learned
Since the days when they labored down here.
In spite of the wonders that science has done
We still are hard-driven and jaded;
We have no more time, and we have no more fun,
And we have no more pleasures than they did!

MAN'S HUMANITY TO MAN

On a tour through half a dozen New England towns, from the edge of Connecticut to the most easterly point in Maine, I was struck with the fact that almost every place had an excellent hospital, equipped with the most modern appliances, and staffed with very intelligent men, most of them young and enthusiastic.

Also I saw few of the little red school-houses that used to dot the country side, but there were many fine school buildings in the cities.

To these schools come summer and winter students who are brought by cars and busses.
When I was a youngster in a Western state where the snow is quite as deep and the cold even more severe than it is in New England, the children had to trudge to the nearest district school, which was necessarily a small one.

Motor cars have changed that now. The school busses run for miles out into the country to gather in the little flock of education seekers.

As soon as a bad snow storm comes along two great motor trucks push ploughs ahead of them till the roads are open, and the paths to glory which lead to the school house are reopened.

Bobbie Burns, singing a hundred and more years ago observed bitterly that "man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn."

But today we see more of man's humanity to man than we have ever seen before.

I admit that most civilized countries are still short sighted about the kind of prisons they build and maintain, and thereby are likely to increase crime rather than abate it.

But in education and medical care the world is advancing very rapidly.

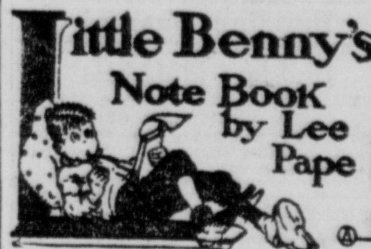

The great cities all have medical centers now where patients can have the advantage of the best knowledge and skill in the world.

There is hardly a state which has not a great state university, and there are many great universities which are not state institutions.

Everywhere we see evidence that man is beginning to realize his duty to his less fortunate brother, and to submit to taxation so that this duty can be carried out.

I am sure that if the most beloved poet ever born in Scotland could return to his native heath he would find that a great step forward had been taken.

And perhaps his verse helped a bit to bring the change about. Anyway, today we are almost as helpful to the distressed day by day, as we have always been when the news of some great disaster awakened us keenly to the needs of sufferers.

Me and pop was eating supper last nite, being liver and onions for about the 4th time since ma went away on account of pop saying liver and onions every time Nora asks him what to order for supper, and I said, G. pop, ma will be home tomorrow morning, time flies, don't it, pop?

Yes, and not only that, but its a small world after all, pop sed.

We got along pretty good without her, considering, didn't we, pop? I said, and pop said, Why yes, I suppose we did, but whatever we do we must give your mother that idea. Ladies are funny in that way, among others. We may cause them a lot of trouble and make their lives miserable, but it would be still more miserable if they thwarted we could get along without causing them any trouble at all. Do you get my point? he said.

O kay, I said, and pop said, Kay O.

And ma came home this morning so early she was in time for breakfast, eating it with her hat still on on account of being so excited coming home, saying, Well, how did you 2 men fokes get on in the absence of my presents? I suppose you never even knew I was away, she said.

O didn't we, just listen to that, ha ha it is to laff, pop said, and I said, G winnickers ill say we knew you was away, G wizzikers good nite.

Why, weren't you comfortable? ma said, and pop said, O yes, we were comfortable, we were about as comfortable as a dollar in the pants pocket of a drunken sailor, we were as comfortable as a hen on a hot griddle on a wet afternoon, and I said, Was we comfortable? O boy we was comfortable all rite, we was as comfortable as a one legged man with his foot cawt in the car track without any rim, I said.

Thats too bad, it makes me feel very gilty, it makes me feel just awful, ma said, I think ill have another cup of coffee, she said.

Wich she did, proving she was enjoying her breakfast more than usual instead of less.

Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Van Cleave returned Thursday night from their ranch at Chowchilla, Madera county.

The fall clean-up campaign in Santa Ana starts Thursday and ends Thursday of next week. A more beautiful Santa Ana is its object.

Mrs. W. B. Tedford, teacher of the Mizpah class of the First Congregational church, was hostess to members Saturday evening.

Santa Ana high school was defeated 14 to 0 in the football game with Long Beach played in this city Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Trueblood returned yesterday from a two-months' eastern trip, during which they visited their former home at Washington, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Haley left Sunday for Boston.

Plans were started yesterday for the organization of a junior Red Cross in Santa Ana.

While boys of the high school are studying military tactics under the regular military training now a part of the school life, the girls of the domestic science department are learning how to make liberty bread.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BEAUTY BORN OF MACHINES

Yesterday I spoke of the fact that our machine order is rapidly evolving out of its earlier ugliness and becoming a producer of beauty in its products.

This beauty is, as I have often said, not going into canvas or cathedral, but into the daily tools and equipment of living, into furniture, bathroom fixtures, radio cabinets, gas ranges, furnace room equipment and kitchen utensils.

This is, to me, significant, for it marks a democratization of art.

No one would, in his right mind, suggest an equality of value between a masterly designed motor car and a magnificently built cathedral as single units of creation thrown into comparison.

But, when we shift our enterprise of valuation from a comparison of single units of creation to a comparison of the ways in which different ages differently express their genius for beauty, the problem of judgment is less simple.

When we compare the pre-machine age, which concentrated its genius for beauty in the creation of a few monumental enterprises that survive the rise and fall of peoples, with the machine age which is diffusing its genius for beauty in the manufacture of the myriad of things the people use month by month and year by year, it becomes convincingly clear, to me at least, that the diffused, even if short-lived and consumable, beauty of the machine age is socially more significant than the concentrated, even if enduring, beauty of the pre-machine age.

The social significance of beauty lies, not in its immortality, but in its current impact upon the lives of common men and women.

A less majestic beauty touching more lives is, in my judgment, preferable to a more majestic beauty touching less lives.

And a beauty expressed in the consumable articles of daily use touches more lives, and with a greater intimacy of effect, than the beauty that breathes from the Elgin Marbles, the Venus de Milo or the Fighting Gladiator.

We are not shut up to such sharp alternatives, but if I had to choose between the less dignified but more democratized art of the machine age and the more dignified but less democratized art of the pre-machine age, for the time, I should forego dignity in the interest of democratization.

And, in time, more of great art will come from an age that thus cultivated popular taste.

THE SPEEDERS

I had hoped that the speed test-ers had been persuaded of their error, but judging by the letters that have come to me this month they are still holding their stop watches over helpless, suffering children.

Did you ever have somebody stand over you with a stop watch and say, "Now have everything ready. When I say Go, you start and work like the mischief. I'm going to time you. If you are faster than anybody else you are a wonder. If you are slower than anybody else you are a dud. Now then. Ready. Go."

What would you say to anybody who did that to you? But suppose you were helpless and couldn't say a word? Couldn't do a thing but grasp your pencil in your wet fingers, choke down your heart, and try to clear the fog that fear had spread over your mind? Suppose you had to undergo that ordeal every Friday morning for ten months? Would you enjoy going to school on Fridays or would you be sick? You'd be sick.

What good does speeding children do that? None that I ever saw. Each child works at his own rate of speed. You can drive him a bit beyond it, but he will have to pay for that spurt in terms of fatigue. He will still work at his own rate of speed when your stop watch has disappeared. The only thing you have succeeded in doing is to worry the child, lower his vitality, give him a horror of tables and stop watches and a distaste for school.

When you have a slow child, so slow that he does not finish his work in a reasonable length of time, no stop watch will help him. What he needs is the services of an expert physician who can discover the lack that is causing this trouble and cure it. Relieved of his difficulty, he will work at his normal rate of speed.

Tables must be automatic. That means when a child is asked to use six times nine he must respond instantly with the fifty-four. He is not to gaze upon the heavens, count his fingers, or make scores on a pad. That fifty-four must be on the end of his tongue or the tip of his pencil. How do we get it there? By practice in the lower grades, when memory is strong and the recall quick and accurate. Give the children number games, varied drills, plenty of practice, and they will be as fast as their limitations allow.

Speeding does the fast children no good and it does the slower children harm. It makes them try to hurry and the effort creates mental confusion. That is always bad. The child feels unfit and, afterward, afraid. The worrisome, nervous child who is overanxious to do what is asked of him, loses his head. He can do nothing. Everything he knows is lost in the fog of fear. This weakens him and makes him less able for the next attempt.

There are many ways of teaching tables, abstract numbers, and all that, aside from speed drills. Accuracy comes first. Get that. When a child knows his tables he will soon acquire sufficient speed for his purpose. The precious nervous energy that goes into speed drills might better be used for more constructive teaching.

FIRST AMERICAN WOUNDED

On October 28, 1917, the first American was wounded after General Siber's forces entered the trenches.

The wounded man was First Lieutenant De Vere H. Harden, signal officer in the reserve corps. The war department announced that Harden received a moderate shrapnel wound in the leg.

On this same date Dr. Dumba, former Austro-Hungarian ambassador to the United States, in a speech in the reichstag, declared that the giant naval program of the United States was mostly bluff.

Allied forces in Flanders captured the entire Mercken peninsula, and German-Austrian forces took Gorizia and Clivada and pressed forward from the Julian Alps to the sea. Monte Santo was likewise captured. This day (Sunday) was observed as a day of prayer for the
